CHARGES PLOT TO 'PACK' SENATE TO AID GERMAN DYES

Francis P. Garvan Accuses Moses and Otto Kahn of Scheming to Get Tariff Favoring Such Interests.

LINKS THEM WITH FELIX WARBURG

Former Alien Property Custodian's Deposition Given in Suit Over Bosch Transfer, Just Dropped.

By Leased Wire From the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch, NEW YORK, Jan. 27.—"Peace. There is no peace. Always the fight goes on."

So said Francis P. Garvan, former Alien Property Custodian, referring to plans to control or destroy the American dye industry through intrigue and propaganda, in a deposition made public yesterday following the dropping of Attorney-General Mitchell of the Government's suit in Boston against Garvan and others.

They were charged with trying to defraud the Government of $5,553,548 through disposition of the patents and other assets of the Bosch Magneto Co. during the war.

Politicians, chemists, former cabinet officials and alleged German spies, came in for denunciation. Some of them he has denounced before the Senate.

But there are new charges, too, notably one that United States Senator George Moses of New Hampshire, Otto Kahn and Felix Warburg conspired to put into Congress Senators who would vote on the tariff as the German dye interests desired.

The deposition was taken Dec. 16 and 17 at Garvan's home in Roslyn, L. I., when he lay ill with diabetes and tuberculosis.

"Some of us in the other day," he said, "that Senator Moses had appointed Otto Kahn as treasurer for the election of new Senators. You did not associate the fact that his friend and partner, Warburg, is the head and front of the American Interests Gemeinschaft in its attempt to destroy our chemical industry and that there is a tariff pending in the United States Senate and that in same question, I am open and that the same Pickrel and the same agents that worked in this case are working around the corridors of the Senate today."

Says Propaganda Is at Work. "The endeavor was that Kahn would furnish the money for the election of the Senators who would vote upon the question of American valuation or foreign valuation. German propaganda again is entering into the vital problem of the life or death of the second greatest industry of the country today, the chemical industry. It is never a dead issue. Peace? There is no peace. Always the fight goes on for the supremacy in the chemical industry, because it is the keystone to the safety of the United States or of any country in the world today."

Our rules, your statutes, your Bosch cases are only appendages, they are only part of a great struggle of Germany to recover the position of throttling chemical development and of dominating over the entire world the development of the chemical industry, which is the secret of industrial property and the secret of military power and the secret of the health and happiness of the nation. This is why I bother to put into this record a bit of the historical picture because you will find the same bunch down in Washington; you will find Hermann Meyer, you will find Bennett in Washington, you will find Pickrel, you will find the same bunch working for the same offices with the same sources of money, using every contention possible to befog the minds of commissions charged with the protection of this country in its industries and in its military equipment."

Garvan's deposition comprises the major part of a pamphlet of 146 printed pages.

"The overpowering fact that has illuminated my memory," he said, "has made me search every possible record and has made me ceaselessly work night and day to ascertain the facts in this case, was the charge in the complaint here, signed and sworn to by Merion E. Lewis, to the effect that when our country's darkest hour, April, 1918, was at hand, when, as President Wilson said, we were with our backs to the wall, I betrayed my country and entered into a conspiracy with the defendants Palmer (former Attorney-General A. Mitchell Palmer), Murray (Arthur T.) and Kern (Martin R.), two of whom I never saw, to turn over this company to these people for less than its value."

"This is a charge of treason, and there has not been one word of testimony, and furthermore there never can be one word of testimony adduced as to the truth of this charge."

"This is sworn to on Information and belief and that led me to look back over all the facts, and then I found the situation was just this, or rather, found the following facts: That in our files on the payroll of the Hamburg-American Line for three years before the war was a man by the name of Canton B. Means; that Means had been a German spy in this country for years and years; that he was employed by Boy-Ed at $1000 from the time of the major war; that William J. Burns was also on the payroll of the Hamburg-American Line for the three years before the war and that we found that from March 4, 1921, this man John T. King, shows up in my office and says he is to be appointed Alien Property Custodian, and I spent two days explaining the office to him, and then Senator Brandegee from Connecticut stopped the appointment.

"John King told me his appointment had been obtained by himself from Senator Moses and next we find that John King told me he could not be appointed, but that he and Senator Moses had obtained the appointment of Thomas W. Miller of Wilmington, Del. "Poor Tom Miller."

"Then the day after Miller is appointed, I go in there to offer my courteous welcome to my successor and I find Senator Moses in Tom Miller's office. Means is put in on the investigation of the Bosch Magneto case. Later we find that Senator Moses had obtained the appointment of Thomas W. Miller of Wilmington, Del. "Poor Tom Miller."

"Always remember that this case is only the bellwether of German propaganda. This case was really over in 1928, not now. This is only a manifestation of its being over. It was over in 1928 when they had befogged the mind of Congress and belonged the issue, as the bill was passed which returned every dollar of German property that had been seized during the war."

CAULFIELD GIVES FULL PARDON TO ST. LOUIS AUTO THEIF

Demmond Nestor, Serving Two Years, Thus Wins Dismissal of Deportation Case.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, Jan. 27.—An unconditional pardon was issued today by Gov. Caulfield to Demmond Nestor, 20 years old, St. Louis, who has been serving a two-year sentence in the penitentiary for the theft of an automobile. This is the first full pardon granted by Gov. Caulfield.

Nestor's term would have expired last month under the merit system, but he has remained in prison pending settlement of deportation proceedings. Immigration officials were willing to drop the plan to deport Nestor to Ireland, the Governor said, if Nestor received a full pardon.

Gov. Caulfield said he issued the pardon because of the recommendation of the penal board and because, under the circumstances, deportation would be a severe penalty.

BRITONS CONTROL U.S. RAYON PLANTS WHEELER ASSERTS

Senator Urges Reduction in Tariff on Materials—Cites American Viscose Co. Profits.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 27.—Appealing for a reduction in the tariff on rayon raw materials and yarns, Senator Wheeler (Dem.), Montana, asserted in the Senate today that British interests controlled production in this country.

"If there's one schedule in this entire bill that is going to take millions from the American farmer and put it in the hands of the great trust in the world it is rayon," he said.

The American Viscose Co., chief rayon producer, is owned and controlled by London interests, he continued, adding it had "piled up millions in profits" and had "paid the tremendous dividends in cash and stock."

Asking a rate of 35 per cent on single and grouped rayon filaments, and single yarns in place of rates in the bill ranging from 45 to 50 per cent, Wheeler said: "I'm not seeking this reduction in the name only of the American consumer. I'm asking it also in the name of the cotton manufacturers. The cotton industry is in the doldrums. 'Afloat of Retaliation.'"

"Practically all cotton manufacturers are hoping there will be a reduction in the tariff because rayon is so necessary in their industry. Some of them, however, have dared ask a decrease as they are afraid of retaliation from this powerful trust."

Senator Jones (Rep.), Washington, announced in the Senate earlier that he would ask reconsideration of the recent action in striking from the tariff bill the retaliatory provisions relating to coal.

He said his State was deeply interested in the provision which permits the United States to levy duties on foreign coal, now free listed, in event tariffs were placed by other countries on American coal. Jones explained he was necessarily absent when the Senate eliminated the section.

Wheeler directed his assault particularly on the proposed minimum duty of 45 cents a pound, saying this was equivalent to 30 per cent on rayon.

Senator Hastings (Rep.), Delaware, challenged Wheeler's statement that 45 cents a pound was far in excess of differences in costs of production here and abroad. He said the foreign production cost was 42 cents a pound and the lowest cost in the United States was 50 cents.

"That's the statement of the Rayon lobbyist before the Finance Committee," said Wheeler disputing the accuracy of the figures. Hastings, however, said the information was correct.

"This proposed tariff," Wheeler said, "is more outrageous than any duty that has ever been placed on sugar."

Wheeler said he understood the president of the American Viscose Co. was recently placed on the board of the American Tariff League to take the place vacated by Senator Grundy (Rep.), Pennsylvania.

He argued testimony before the Senate Finance Committee developed that, notwithstanding huge profits, the foreign-controlled mills were "not paying their laborers enough to keep their bodies and souls together."

He included the Dupont Mills among those opposed to union labor, and warned against the Finance Committee's action that a higher tariff would be in the interest of the farmer or American laborer.

Tonnage Problem First Before Parley

up first at the next session of the full conference.

It also was decided to let the other subjects come up in the alphabetical order of the countries proposing them. This means that France will be able to place her compromise "global" tonnage proposal before the conference before Italy can present the somewhat different plan she favors.

During the afternoon it was announced that, because of the length of the morning session, the British and Japanese conference scheduled for today had been abandoned.

British Prefers Smaller Cruisers. Announcement of cancellation of work on the British cruisers Surrey and Northumberland was made by the Admiralty without explanation. The absence of official comment was taken as further evidence of Great Britain's faith that some agreement would be reached during the present negotiations.

The Surrey and Northumberland were to have been 10,000-ton vessels. The inference was that Great Britain saw the way to an agreement, whereby she will need only her present strength in this largest class of cruisers, leaving the remainder of her tonnage to be placed into other ships. The understanding has been that in parity discussions with the United States, the British indicated they preferred to build cruisers of about 4000 tons rather than the bigger type as replacements.

It was pointed out in other quarters that recent cruiser discussions indicated the British were much interested in the Japanese, as well as American cruiser programs, particularly in view of Japan's demand for a 7 to 10 cruiser status. The Admiralty's cancellation, therefore, was taken as possible evidence that the British are confident Japan's demands will be met satisfactorily on a basis which would not give her greater power in large cruisers than Great Britain already possesses.

Reports that the United States had joined with Japan in her demand for more cruisers were denied at the American delegation headquarters. It is understood thus far no formal discussions of this subject have been held.

Proposal in Global Tonnage. At least one phase of the French naval demands which threatened trouble in the conference was thought by American delegates today to have reached a possible solution with a modified form of limitation by global tonnage theory.

The French, throughout, have contended for limitation of war vessels by total tonnage, a scheme which would allow them to build as much as they needed in whatever class they wanted, provided the total limit was not exceeded.

The British idea has been to limit naval armament by categories. During the latter part of last week and in week-end conversations between the Americans and the French a compromise was understood to have been reached. Andre Tardieu, French Premier, possibly will find acceptance.

Ambassador Gibson, who has come from Brussels to participate in the conference, was among those present at the conference for the Americans. Throughout the discussions he reiterated the position taken last year by the United States in notes to Great Britain and France in which the United States Government was willing to consider a proposal on global tonnage on lines expressed by the French statesman Paul Boncour at Geneva.

Shifting Would Be Allowed. This proposal would allow shifting from one category to another within limits provided due notice be given to other Powers concerned in the limitation treaty.

It is understood the heads of the delegations meeting at 10 Downing street this morning had before them a document prepared by the conference Secretary-General, Sir Maurice Hankey, giving the points emerging from last week's discussion on the global tonnage-category question.

The tonnage measurement plan had been under study even before the conference began, but the proposal to straighten out the Franco-Italian question apparently developed overnight. This latter idea has not yet been reduced to writing and it is not known whether it will be fully acceptable to the other Powers, although first reactions appeared hopeful.

As it stood in tentative form, the suggestion was that the five chief naval Powers join in a declaration, perhaps in the preamble of a limitation treaty, saying that the sovereign privilege of possessing a navy of any size could not be abridged, except voluntarily.

Would Abandon Fixed Ratios. This, in effect, would do away with any fixed ratio understanding such as was laid down in the Washington treaty. Then in the body of the treaty, each Power would stipulate the outside limits on its building needs between now and the conference of 1932 when the whole situation is expected to come under review again for conformity with the agreement reached at Washington in 1922.

At the same time it was disclosed that serious consideration was being given by several delegations to a proposal that the Italian parity problem be met by a treaty declaration in which all Powers would join. This would state that the sovereign right of every nation to build an adequate fleet was fully recognized, but that the signatories voluntarily agreed not to exceed a certain construction program between now and 1934.

Apparently the Italians, headed by the youthful Dino Grandi, Foreign Minister, feels that time may be a factor on their side. They declared they, by no means, had recoiled from the stand that Italian naval equality with any other continental power must be a condition to their agreement to any naval reduction plan.

Attempts by France and Italy to settle their political differences over the week-end were unavailing, and apparently both were willing today to go on to more technical phases of the conference in the

KILLED TRYING LOOP IN GLIDER IN CALIFORNIA

Norman A. Goddard, Former Navy Flyer, Leaps 150 Feet and Falls Into Oakland Estuary.

By the Associated Press.

OAKLAND, Cal., Jan. 27.—Norman A. Goddard, former navy flyer and recently operator of a Palo Alto aviation school, was killed when a glider in which he attempted to execute a loop over the Alameda estuary.

The craft broke up as Goddard pulled it out of a dive preparatory to looping at an altitude of 100 feet. Entangled in the disintegrating fabric of the wings, he struggled free himself and jumped from the cockpit at a height of 125 feet. His parachute opened a few seconds later to check his fall and he plunged into Oakland estuary. He still was alive when airport authorities reached him in a launch on neck on arrival at Alameda Hospital.

Goddard, who was 33 years old, was an aviator in the U.S. Navy from here to Honolulu in 1917, a Lieutenant in the Naval Reserve, he designed and built his own airplane for the trans-Pacific race. With Lieut. Kenneth Hawkins as navigator, Goddard took off from Hawaii, but at the end of the run the plane was wrecked in ground loop.

growing indications, both in official and unofficial circles, of tendency to regard the eight-gun or 10,000-ton cruisers as the supreme issue of the Paris conference.

Naval circles particularly here broadly that they consider Prime Minister MacDonald in his desire to prevent full competition between Great Britain and America acted over hastily in agreeing tentatively to fewer eight-inch gun cruisers than America and that he overlooked Japan's threat.

There appears to be a genuine fear that this may lead to friction between Great Britain and Japan as Japan considers a 70 per cent ratio with the cruiser strength of America as necessary for her defensive requirements. This would mean that in this category of vessels Japan would have a 48 per cent ratio as compared with the British total if America had 100 per cent.

Other cities, he said, also lack a system of checking the Assessor's tax bills in the Comptroller's office, a system which resulted in the discovery of tax frauds here.

DECEMBER AUTO PRODUCTION LOWEST SINCE JANUARY, 1922

1934 Cars Put Out in Seventh Federal Reserve District, Report Says.

CHICAGO, Jan. 27.—The lowest output of automobiles in the United States since January, 1922, was reported for December in the monthly review of business conditions in the Seventh Federal Reserve District, issued by the Federal Reserve bank of Chicago.

The output was 91,234 cars, the report said, compared to 169,282 in November and 204,557 in December, 1928. Total output for the year, however, was 4,546,020, most 800,000 more than the previous year.

Distribution of both new and used cars decreased throughout the Middle West. Retail sales in both new and used cars gained in 1929, but stocks of new cars on hand were heavier than at the close of 1928.

Furniture output, shipments and orders were lower in December than in November. 24 firms reported a decrease of 39 per cent in orders booked and of 22.5 per cent in shipments from the preceding month. The average rate of operation of 17 firms was 71.6 per cent, compared to 82.3 during November.

CHANGES IN TAX ASSESSMENT PLAN TO BE PROPOSED

However, No Material Alterations Are Contemplated, Gehner Says on Return From Tour.

ST. LOUIS SYSTEM FOUND EFFICIENT

Has Advantages Over Method in Cleveland, Detroit and Other Cities, Officials Declare.

Changes in the method of assessing taxes on real estate in St. Louis will be recommended by City Assessor Fred Gehner and Tax Examiner Erwin G. Schubkegel as a result of a study of methods used in Cleveland, Detroit, Chicago and St. Paul.

Gehner and Schubkegel, back in St. Louis today after a 10-day tour, said their report for the Board of Estimate and Apportionment would not be completed until after March 1, and that no drastic changes in the St. Louis assessment method would be recommended.

The two men said they had concluded that the St. Louis method, in some respects, was superior to the methods used in the other cities, while they were favorably impressed with parts of the Cleveland and St. Paul systems.

St. Paul, for example, has a district in which photographs and detailed descriptions of properties are filed for ready reference. Both cities assess on the "unit basis," under which each district assessor is provided with a book listing the assessment value of each piece of property so that he need only consult the book to determine the assessment value. In St. Louis, assessment values are left to the judgment of district assessors.

In the other cities, Schubkegel said, they found no classification superior to the block and lot system which has long prevailed in St. Louis, under which any piece of real estate can quickly be found on plats in the Assessor's office.

Other cities, he said, also lack a system of checking the Assessor's tax bills in the Comptroller's office, a system which resulted in the discovery of tax frauds here.

Schubkegel also plans to incorporate in his report a comparative analysis of various sections of St. Louis showing the assessments which would result under the various systems.

No Opposition to City Proposal for Approval of General Plan at Once.

By the Jefferson City Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, Jan. 27.—The State Public Service Commission today held a hearing on the plan of the city of St. Louis for elimination of the Union-Lindell grade crossing, construction of a viaduct over the Wabash and Rock Island tracks at that point, and depression of the tracks southeast through Forest Park.

City Counselor Muench asked that the commission should pass as early as possible on the city's general plan, to enable the city to begin construction, and that it should take up later the allocation of the cost between the city and the two railroads.

In the absence of opposition, it appeared that the commission would do as Muench requested. The railroads have agreed to leave the division of cost to the commission. The expected cost of the work is $450,000, of which the city expects to pay about one-third, or $150,000, from bond issue funds.

The City Counselor said that the Union Electric, Laclede Gas Light and Southwestern Bell Telephone companies had agreed to change their installation at Lindell and Union, without charge to the city. The Western Union Telegraph Co. has not committed itself, and a representative of the company asked for further time, to look up its contract with the Wabash.

Homer Hall, of the Wabash legal department, said some differences had arisen between the railroad engineers and those of the city as to details of construction. He asked that in any order issued, the commission should leave the way open for adjustment of these points by agreement. There is no present controversy as to the proposed clearance, which is 18 feet between the rails and the structure. The State law requires 22 feet clearance except where the commission judges an exception to be necessary. Debar viaduct, with 18 feet clearance, has set the standard for the other viaducts over the Wabash.

Delegates From 12 States Urge Solution of Workmen's and Employers' Problems.

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, Jan. 27.—Formation of an industrial fellowship of the Episcopal church to interpret for the church the problems of labor and inform labor of the aims of the church was announced by the Rev. Charles N. Lathrop, executive secretary of the social service department of the National Council of the Protestant Episcopal Church.

The announcement was made after a meeting of Episcopalian workers from 12 states. They expressed concern over "the rapid mechanization of industry and the displacement of industry," and said that, if the church is to function effectively it "must function in and through an industrial order of society."

"We are convinced," the statement said, "that it is impossible for labor to solve the problems of industry alone. We are equally convinced that it is impossible for employers alone to solve these problems."

"We believe that the most effective way for the church to aid labor is to encourage the men of labor within the church to help in the solution of these problems as churchmen and Christians. We believe the same holds equally true for employers."

MEETING OF WOMEN OPPOSING DRY LAW

Former Senator Wadsworth Says Prohibition Fails to Reach America's Conscience.

By Leased Wire from the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.
NEW YORK, Jan. 27.—Prohibition has failed because it has no roots in the conscience of the American people, former United States Senator James Wadsworth said last night at a dinner at which Mrs. Charles H. Sabin, former Republican National Committeewoman, again laid the issue at the doorstep of the Republican party.

"A political party that avoids this issue will eventually sink to oblivion," Mrs. Sabin said to more than 400 guests and members of the Women's Organization for National Prohibition Reform, of which she is president. The dinner was held in the clubhouse of the American Women's Association and was arranged by Mrs. W. K. Vanderbilt, James M. Doran, prohibition commissioner, was a speaker and his wife a guest of honor.

Favors Dry Law As Issue.
Wadsworth, who recently said he would make prohibition a major issue whenever he seeks office, quoted statistics purported to show the failure of attempts to enforce the law and then asserted:

"The reaction of the public to this attempt to impose total abstinence by force is the one great cause of the deplorable condition that confronts us on every hand." "The public is made up overwhelmingly of decent people," Wadsworth continued. "No one can indict millions of people. As I said, there must be a reason. It is because the law does not reach down into the conscience of the average man."

Regarding the constitutionality of the law, Wadsworth said: "There is no other provision like it in the Constitution. It is in conflict with the spirit of the whole instrument, and especially with that part known as the Bill of Rights. All these other things, the Volstead act, the Jones law, the padlocking, the raiding, the shooting have their origin in that provision that is so foreign to the Constitution."

Says Repeal Is Possible.
Wadsworth expressed the conviction that the law could be repealed. "People tell me," he said, "that there is no way out, that the eighteenth amendment cannot be changed, much less repealed. I do not believe it. I do not believe that what has been done cannot be undone when the conscience and the spirit of the people is aroused. You cannot persuade me that the American people when aroused are incompetent to govern themselves in the interest of temperance and decency."

Mrs. Sabin said that because women had played a large part in enacting the eighteenth amendment, women should both work and pray for a change in the law.

She challenged, on the part of the Women's Organization for National Prohibition Reform—the Women's Christian Temperance Union to give within 30 days the names and addresses and proof of 1000 persons who drank to excess before the passage of the eighteenth amendment who have ceased drinking as a result of the amendment. If this number of persons cannot be named, Mrs. Sabin said, "then the price we have paid for our experience in crime, corruption, lawlessness and murders has been too great."

HOLDUP 3 FLOORS UNDERGROUND

New York Robber Gets $3000

By the Associated Press.
NEW YORK, Jan. 27.—A hold-up man invaded the department store of Gimbel Brothers, Inc., last night and robbed a cashier in the sub-basement, three floors below the street, between 11th and 12th streets.

The cashier, John Blanchard, 33 years old, said he was alone in his cage when a man about 30 years old drew a pistol and ordered him to turn over the money. After gathering all the cash in the cage, the man warned Blanchard not to press an alarm button that would have sounded a warning throughout the store. Blanchard was in charge of receiving money from drivers after delivering collect on delivery packages. The store had closed some hours earlier. A thorough search was made of the building in belief that the man had hidden himself after the robbery, but no trace of him could be found.

$6.88 Per Capita Paid in 1928 To Operate State of Missouri

Seven-Cent Increase Over 1927 Shown in Department of Commerce Summary—Lowest in 1917 Was $3.31.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
WASHINGTON, Jan. 27.—The Department of Commerce has announced a summary of the financial statistics of the State of Missouri for the year ending Dec. 31, 1928, based on an estimated population of 2,522,000.

The operation and maintenance of the general departments of Missouri cost $24,247,504, or $6.88 per capita. This includes $6,262,- 776, apportioned for education to the minor civil divisions of the State. In 1927 the per capita cost of operation and maintenance was $6.51, and in 1917 $3.31.

The interest on debt in 1928 amounted to $2,218,105, and outlays for permanent improvements, $14,326,321. The total cost, therefore, for operation and maintenance of general departments, interest and outlays was $41,785,930.
The totals include all payments for the year, whether made from current revenues or from the proceeds of bond issues. Of the governmental costs, $15,075,761 was for highways, $1,006,148 being for maintenance and $14,069,613 for construction.

The total revenue receipts were $45,915,708, or $12.72 per capita.
This was $17,548,099 more than the total payments of the year, exclusive of the payments for permanent improvements, and $3,237,- 778 more than the total payments including those for permanent improvements. This excess of revenue receipts is reflected in reduction of debt and in purchase of investments and increased cash balances, not shown in the summary.

Property and special taxes represented 34.4 per cent of the total revenue for 1928, 32.1 per cent for 1927 and 36.3 per cent in 1917. The increase in the amount of property and special taxes collected was 19.4 per cent from 1917 to 1927 and 12.8 per cent from 1927 to 1928. The per capita property and special taxes were $4.40 in 1928, $3.91 in 1927 and $1.40 in 1917.

Earnings of general departments, or compensation for services given by State officials, represented 16 per cent of the total revenue for 1928, 15.4 per cent for 1927 and 35.3 per cent for 1917.

Business and nonbusiness licenses constituted 41.2 per cent of the total revenue for 1928, 41.1 per cent for 1927 and 22.9 per cent for 1917.

Receipts from business licenses constituted chiefly of taxes exacted from insurance and other incorporated companies and of sales tax on gasoline, while those from nonbusiness licenses comprise

MAN, APPARENTLY BEATEN, IS FOUND DEAD IN STREET

Sylvanus Felty, 65, Laborer, of East St. Louis Had Suffered Fractured Skull and Injured Scalp.

Apparently beaten to death, Sylvanus Felty, 65 years old, a laborer, was found on State street near Thirty-seventh street, East St. Louis, at 2 a. m. yesterday. His skull was fractured and his scalp lacerated.

Police surmise his body was left in the street in the hope his death would be attributed to an automobile accident.

A motorist driving toward St. Louis saw the body and reported what he supposed was an accident. City Detective Boyne investigated and found Felty's clothing was not torn or soiled, as it probably would have been had he been struck by a vehicle. Papers in a pocket led to identification of the body.

Deputy Coroner Leo Madden, who performed an autopsy, said Felty's skull had been fractured in four places, indicating he had been beaten. Dr. Madden expressed the opinion Felty died after being placed in the street.

Robbery may have been the motive for the beating, police said. Felty's pockets contained only one cent. He had received some pay last Tuesday, but it has not been learned how much he was paid or what he had spent.

Felty had been rooming at 228 St. Clair avenue. Four occupants of the house and three other men were detained for questioning.

Felty is survived by two sons. His body will be buried at Carmel, Ill., his former home.

SAYS ALIEN SENTIMENT BACKS WETS IN HOUSE

M. E. Board of Temperance Comments on Move to Modify Dry Laws.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 27.—The wet bloc of the House was assailed today as representing alien sentiment in its appeal for modification or repeal of the dry laws.

The clasp of the board of temperance, prohibition and public morals of the Methodist Episcopal Church, edited jointly by Dr. Clarence True Wilson, secretary, and Deets Pickett, research secretary, said that while the files of the board listed 114 members of the House as wet only 81 of these were willing to oppose the law openly, and of these number 33 came from Chicago, Philadelphia, Milwaukee, St. Louis and Cleveland.

"The appeal of only 10 of 48 states are represented in the beer bloc," it said. "The organized anti-prohibition group in the House of Representatives is clearly alien sentiment, as is indicated not only by the character of the utterances made, but by the fact that the beer bloc strength diminishes rapidly as it leaves the centers of alien congestion. For instance, although New York State is the hot bed of nullification sentiment, the beer bloc has been able to enroll a bare majority of its Congressional representation.

Allen Representation. "It appears then that a small group, many of whom would not be in Congress at all but for the strange fact that aliens are allowed representation, is engaged in telling the American people that it cannot make any law which is disapproved by colonies of the foreign-born and that it cannot enforce such a law if and when it is made.

"It is a group movement, singularly lacking in numerical strength and in the moral support which comes from the enlistment of American principles. The character of its propaganda constitutes a direct and compelling challenge to a freedom loving and ever-victorious people."

In passing the legislation under which the 1930 census will be made, the House attached an amendment that would have excluded aliens from the count upon which an apportionment of the House seats is made, but later considered its action and struck the proposal from the measure.

Plans on Beer Proposal. Representative Dyer (Rep.), Missouri, author of a 2.75 per cent beer measure, announced yesterday he would invite members of the Law Enforcement Commission before the House Judiciary Committee to express themselves on the modification issue.

A study of the Swedish system of handling alcoholic beverages was made public by the Association Against the Prohibition Amendment, with the contention that Sweden during its operation had reduced by half the number of arrests for drunkenness and crimes of violence.

In addition, the statement said, Sweden had reduced per capita consumption of liquor by 15 per cent and was deriving revenues of more than $30,000,000 yearly from the trade.

Under the system, the statement explained, monopolies were set up whose dividends were so held down that there was no incentive to push the sale of intoxicants. The quantity of liquor purchasable was restricted to conform to the habits of the buyer, with that of persons who used it with injurious effects greatly reduced or entirely cut off.

SAYS SUIT AGAINST SUBSIDIARY OF FOX FIRM WILL BE DROPPED

Manager of Western Theater Chain Reports Agreement to Dismiss Receivership Action.

By the Associated Press.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Jan. 27.—B. Franklin, manager of Fox West Coast Theaters, said yesterday the petition filed in Seattle, Wash., Friday for a receivership for the Pacific Northwest Theaters would be withdrawn today. He said J. G. Von Herberg, attorney for the petitioners had agreed to the withdrawal.

Franklin said the agreement was reached following an explanation by him of the dividend policy of Fox West Coast Theaters, of which the Pacific Northwest Theaters is a subsidiary. The latter group operates in Oregon and Montana as well as Washington.

PREVENTING DIABETIC DEATHS FROM COMA

The Metropolitan Life Insurance Company has shown that of 1044 cases of death from diabetes reported during the first four months of 1929, four hundred and forty-three or 41% resulted from coma.

A physician who has made a splendid record in combating diabetes lays down six rules for the diabetic to follow:

"Whenever he feels ill and sick he should (1) call his doctor, (2) go to bed, (3) take a hot drink every hour, (4) take an enema, (5) keep warm and (6) get a nurse or someone to care for him. Another good rule is to have boiled water ready for the doctor when he arrives in case he wishes to use it."

"Promptness in diagnosis is everything and next to it comes energetic treatment at the earliest possible moment."

C. L. GERAGHTY DIES; UNDERTAKER 30 YEARS

Member of Old House of Delegates Seriously Ill for 10 Days

Funeral services for Charles L. Geraghty, undertaker and member of the old House of Delegates, who died of heart disease at his home, 5470 Delmar boulevard, last night, will be held at 10 a. m. Wednesday at the St. Louis Cathedral, followed by interment in Calvary Cemetery. The Rev. Sylvester Tucker will conduct the services.

Mr. Geraghty, who was 58 years old, became seriously ill 10 days ago. He seemed to improve and was sitting up, reading a newspaper, when he collapsed and died.

Active in Democratic politics, he was elected to the House of Delegates from the Twenty-seventh Ward in 1908, serving until 1909. He was a member of the committee which designated Forest Park as the World's Fair site. He was a friend of former United States Senator James A. Reed and made speeches during the latter's successful campaign for re-election in 1922. He sought the Democratic nomination for Congress in the Eleventh District in 1925. In 1923 he was a member of the St. Louis Smith-for-President Committee.

Born and educated in St. Louis, he founded the Charles L. Geraghty & Son Undertaking Co. 30 years ago at 421 Easton avenue, now at 4359 Lindell boulevard.

At the time when he went into business, undertaking was conducted in conjunction with the livery stable business, and the liverymen-undertakers usually took part in politics. After the undertaking business was motorized, most of the undertakers sought locations on main thoroughfares. The Geraghty establishment was placed on Lindell boulevard only after a conflict with residents, who previously defeated Mr. Geraghty's attempt to acquire the Walsh home at 4510 Lindell, now Archbishop Gennons' residence.

Mr. Geraghty was married three times, his first two wives dying. He is survived by his widow, Mrs. May Cunningham Geraghty; a son, L. Evin Geraghty, former St. Louis University football star and vice president of the undertaking company; four daughters, Mrs. Frank McGee, Kansas City; Katherine, Rose and June Geraghty; a brother, William F. Geraghty, and two stepsons, Paul E. Winter and John Moroney.

EPISCOPALIAN CONVENTION TO OPEN HERE TOMORROW

Dean William Scarlett Named as Possible Candidate in Election of Bishop Coadjutor

The diocesan convention of the Protestant Episcopal diocese of (Eastern) Missouri will open tomorrow in Bishop Tuttle Memorial. Election of a bishop coadjutor, requested by Bishop Johnson, is expected to be held the opening day. In the short time that this matter has been under consideration, the name chiefly discussed has been that of Dean William Scarlett of Christ Church Cathedral. It would be possible for the convention to elect a clergyman of this or any other diocese, or the bishop of a missionary diocese. The bishop of a self-supporting diocese is not subject to change by election.

A diocesan fellowship reception, at the Memorial Building at 5:30 p. m. tomorrow, and a dinner at 6:30, will be open to all Episcopalians. Dean Scarlett will preside and the Rev. Dr. Robert Nelson Spencer of Kansas City will speak.

Members of the Hostess Committee, who will conduct the reception and preside at tables at the dinner, are as follows: Mrs. Frederick Foote Johnson, Mrs. Harry January, Mrs. Louise Stiles, Mrs. A. M. Lane, Mrs. W. L. Henry, Miss Annie Lewis, Mrs. Carl Road Taylor, Mrs. Roy Murray, Mrs. James Noble, Miss Cynthia Fitzgerald, Mrs. J. Courtney Jones, Mrs. Edward Sieber, Mrs. H. A. ## HELD FOR KILLING EX-WIFE'S HUSBAND

Raymond French Shot Friend After Quarrel in Hotel at Venice, Ill.

Charged with the murder of his former friend and the husband of his divorced wife, Raymond French, 32 years old, of Bloomington, Ill., is in jail at Venice, Leroy, Ill., today.

The two men, brokenmen for the Chicago & Alton Railroad at Bloomington, had been friends for years. In 1927, French's wife died and he went to live at French's home. After several months of harmony, during which the two men worked on different shifts, French heard gossip about his wife and Rudder. He sued for divorce.

Late last December, French obtained an uncontested decree of divorce. A few days later, on Jan. 4, Rudder and Mrs. French were married.

The two men did not meet again until last Thursday evening at a railroad men's hotel in Venice. Witnesses said a few sharp words were exchanged, then French drew his pistol and fired, wounding Rudder in the back, chest and abdomen.

French told police he fired in self-defense after Rudder had drawn a knife, threatening him. However, no knife was found on Rudder or at the scene of the shooting.

ADMITTS PASSING $800 IN WORTHLESS CHECKS

Frank Felch and Two Men He Was Training Held — Started Month Ago.

Admission that he had cashed 40 or 50 worthless pay checks for about $20 each since coming to St.
Louis a month ago has been made to police by Frank Felch, 28 years old, also known as Berry and Moore.

A check writer and passer, he had trained two 23-year-old men to assist him in passing checks and they were arrested with him Saturday night as they left the Salfert Motor Co., 6813 South Broadway, where their conduct had attracted suspicion.

The men were carrying two pairs of shoes. Investigation disclosed they had obtained the shoes by cashing checks for $19.75 and $18.55 at the Wasserman and Goldman shoe stores, 7221 and 7619
South Broadway, respectively.
Felch's companions said he had assured them his training would bring them "easy money."

A check forger since the age of 18, Felch admitted having served reformatory and penitentiary sentences. Under parole from prison, he eloped with a young woman, toured the United States and Canada in stolen automobiles and passed checks. When she returned to her home, he came to St. Louis, continuing to support himself on bad checks.

PASSENGER GAIN ON AIR LINES

Reduced fares, which approximate railroad rates with Pullman, continue to bring increased patronage to air lines operating through St. Louis, particularly on Saturdays, and Sundays.

Saturday T. A. T-Maddux carried 78 paid passengers on the Eastern division, Columbus, O., to Waynesville, Ok., with a stop at Lambert-St.
Louis Field, while planes of the Universal lines brought 78 passengers to St. Louis from Chicago.
Yesterday T. A. T-Maddux had 21
eastbound passengers through St.
Louis, Southwest Air Fast Express,
St. Louis to Dallas Tex., also reported near-capacity loads. It was necessary to operate special sections on the T. A. T-Maddux and Universal lines to handle the large number of passengers.

BORAH, WHEELER. DEMAND REMOVAL OF DRY OFFICIAL

Senate Told of Investigation of Idaho-Montana Administrator When He Was Maryland Chief.

MITCHELL INDORSES WILLIAMSON BILL

Attorney-General Asks That House Committee Hasten Transfer of Authority to His Department.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 27.—Immediate removal of John F. C. Herbert as prohibition administrator for Montana and Idaho was demanded in the Senate today by Senators Borah of Idaho and Wheeler of Montana, on charges placed before them by Department of Justice investigators.

Wheeler accompanied his demand with a declaration that prohibition enforcement had broken down. He named the "politicians" and called on the President's Law Enforcement Commission to summon members of the Republican National Committee before it to determine "how prohibition officers are appointed."

Both Wheeler and Borah said they had been informed that the Department of Justice investigated Herbert when he was prohibition administrator for Maryland and reported "malfeasance and corruption."

"If the facts be true as reported to me by a representative of the Department of Justice," said Borah, "this man has no business in Idaho or Montana or anywhere else outside of a penitentiary."

Wheeler said: "Unless the administration takes Herbert out of Montana, I will call for an investigation and I will insist that the Department of Justice make public its evidence."

Herbert recently transferred from Baltimore to the Northwest District. His assistant at Baltimore, J. C. Quinn, has been dismissed.

Borah remarked that "it has been represented that one of the reasons for sending Herbert to Idaho was that he was a protégé of mine," then added:

"The first I ever heard of this man was recently when an officer of the Department of Justice came to me and narrated the record of Herbert and Quinn. The record was one of malfeasance and corruption. The Department of Justice agent told me he had related these facts to Prohibition Commissioner Dorn. I had assumed that these two gentlemen had been dismissed."

Wheeler said he had been informed that the Department of Justice record on Herbert had been put before the Prohibition Bureau. "The rank and file of my State," said Wheeler, "don't want any carthagians sent out there to enforce the law."

"Punishment" for Montana. "Notwithstanding that the Department of Justice investigation showed these men were perfectly corrupt," continued Wheeler, "they sent Herbert out to Montana to enforce the law. It is exceedingly unfortunate and I can account for it only by the fact that the administration wants to punish my State for electing two Democratic Senators."

Wheeler contended the "real fault with prohibition lies with the politicians." He said that no man could get a position as a prohibition agent "unless he has the backing of the Republican politicians."

"It has brought wholesale disrespect for the law," he continued. "The great trouble is not lack of money or lack of laws. The trouble is prohibition has been made a political football. And a lot of honest women are fooled by these politicians. The President of the United States sends a perfectly meaningless telegram to the Women's Christian Temperance Union."

Attorney-General Mitchell today urged the House Expenditures Committee to expedite action on legislation to transfer the prohibition enforcement unit from the Treasury to the Justice Department.

Mitchell said he was in accord with the recommendations of Secretary of the Treasury Mellon before the committee favoring the transfer and informed the Williamson bill to effect this change.

Attorneys in the Treasury Department connected with the prohibition unit would be transferred to the Justice Department along with the agents in order to carry on prosecutions, Mitchell said.

He opposed putting prohibition unit attorneys under the civil service.

Conflicting Views on Proposed Bridge Deal With Terminal To Be Aired at Hearing Tomorrow

Cost of New Approaches to Municipal Span and High Rent Demanded for Eads Upper Deck Subjects in Controversy.

Two phases of the St. Louis bridge question, a vital matter in the industrial and commercial progress of this metropolitan area, will be before the citizens of St.
Louis for discussion at the public hearing to be held at City Hall at 7 o'clock tomorrow evening on Mayor Miller's bill for reciprocal use of Municipal Bridge by the main line railroads and of Eads Bridge by the public free of tolls.
The hearing has been called by the special bridge committee of the Board of Aldermen, of which Walter J. G. Noun, president of the board is chairman. The Mayor's bill has been referred to this committee which has held two meetings to discuss it.

On one phase, the proposal that the city lease the upper deck of Eads Bridge from the Terminal Railroad Association for $208,500
a year, Mayor Miller has changed his stand since he caused his bill to be introduced. In a letter to the Board of Aldermen last Friday he recommended the elimination of the Eads Bridge provisions, leaving the proposed ordinance covering only the arrangement for use of the Municipal Bridge by the Terminal railroads.

Divergent Views.
If the Mayor's revised plan is accepted—and it coincides with the views of some of his official advisers and those of the Merchants'
Exchange and Shippers' Conference Association—it will reduce the consideration to one important question, the elimination of the Eads Bridge provisions, possibly $4-000,000, from the bill. It does not specify the cost. It does provide that plans and specifications and estimates of cost must be approved by the Board of Public Service, which shall have access to all the books and accounts of the city in connection with the construction, and that the city is obligated to pay for the approaches is that which the Board of Public Service approves as correct.

Excessive Expenditure Feared.
Since the city would be required to pay the Terminal 5 per cent interest on the investment in these approaches, some members of the Board of Aldermen fear an excessive expenditure on the approaches would run the interest bill up to a prohibitive figure.

The city has expended nearly $3,000,000 already in constructing the bridge and approaches, not including interest on the bonds. Five per cent on this is $400,000 a year and 5 per cent on an additional $2,500,000 would be $125,000 a year, making a total of $525,000 a year as the amount of carrying cost attributable to interest. In addition, there would be maintenance, operation and taxes which have to be paid on that part of the structure in Illinois.

Since the only estimate so far made by the Terminal as to the amount of traffic it would put over the bridge is enough passenger trains to make the tolls to the city at present rate about $100,000 a year, it is seen that without a substantial increase in this minimum estimate the city's revenue from this source would not be enough to meet the carrying charges and there would be nothing left to pay on the purchase of the approaches.

Eads Bridge Deal.
In contemplation of the Eads Bridge deal the city was to pay the Terminal $208,500 a year for use of that structure's upper deck, and all maintenance costs, which would still further add to the deficit unless the Terminal used the municipal bridge much more than its minimum estimate.

One objection advanced to the proposed ordinance is that it makes no guarantee of the amount of traffic the Terminal will send over the bridge. City Counselor Muench says the existing situation which makes the municipal bridge the most economical route between St.
Louis and the East is guaranteed enough that the bridge will be largely used. On this point President Henry Miller of the Terminal told the Post-Dispatch he considered the estimate of $500,000 a year very low. That was for passenger business alone. He thought a great deal of freight would go over the bridge.

The principal objection to including the Eads Bridge arrangement in the ordinance for use of the municipal bridge is that the proposed annual rental is excessive.
This figure was determined by taking an average of the Terminal's revenue from tolls of vehicles and pedestrians for the last five years.
The amount has been increasing annually and in computing the average the year 1929 was estimated at $270,000. Later figures show the revenue for that year was $280,000. It has been said that a considerable part of this represents charges collected by the terminal from trucking concerns which complete freight hauls for railroads terminating in East St. Louis, and that by removing the tolls the Terminal would make a reduction in the rental accordingly.

East St. Louis wants Eads Bridge freed of tolls and a majority of its city council has indicated they are building their own approaches, but

HUGE PROCESSIONS
IN SOME CITIES

National Flag Put Up in Bombay During Cries of "Long Live the Revolution."

By the Associated Press.
BOMBAY, India, Jan. 27.—Violence occurred in various parts of India yesterday as Nationalist advocates gathered to express their aspirations for Indian independence.

One hundred thousand persons assembled for a mass meeting at Chowpatty Sands and adopted an independence resolution. A strong communist mill workers' faction clashed with nationalists and in free-for-all fighting several were injured.

At Ashran, the little colony of Mahatma Gandhi, advocate for passive resistance to British rule, spent the day in fasting and spinning and at an evening meeting in the presence of their leader, passed the resolution of independence.

The meeting at Chowpatty Sands was in progress when several communist mill workers bearing a red flag arrived and urged the audience to pull down the national flag. A fight ensued. One communist finally climbed the flagpole and nailed on the Hammer and Sickle banner.

When the Communists left volunteers of the all-Indian national congress organization tore the red flag to shreds.

Huge processions were held here,
at New Delhi, Calcutta, Lahore and Ahmedabad, but the police had a comparatively easy time in confining the demonstrations to raising the national flag and shouts of "Long live the Union Jack."

At the Bombay headquarters of the Congressional Committee the national flag was hoisted amid cries of "long live the revolution,"
"up with the national flag," and
"down with the Union Jack."

Speakers urged the crowd to carry on an unceasing but non-violent campaign to free the country from foreign domination.

Elaborate measures taken by police to restrict mass meetings and the carrying of weapons were thought to have prevented more disorder.

The all-India national congress meeting late last year set the day aside as "Indian Independence day."

Four Children Injured in Bomb

By the Associated Press.
DACC, Bengal, Jan. 27.—Several Hindus and Mohammedans were injured yesterday in a fight marking celebration of Indian independence day. As the Hindu procession passed the Mosque of the Mohammedans the Moslems, incen-sated by shouts of "Bande mattaram," clashed with them.

The district magistrate informed leaders of the All-India National Congress that the Hindus had entered the mosque and destroyed the Koran and religious furnishings.
Cases of assault occurred in various localities but armed police preparing to fight for it. They say it should be an essential part of the bridge deal. They will have something to say about the Terminal project, for the Terminal will have to get authority from East St. Louis to build its east side approaches and its new union station. An ordinance to grant that authority is pending, but three of the four City Commissioners have said they would oppose the ordinance unless the Eads Bridge plan was included.

Downtown St. Louis business interests also are heartily in favor of a free crossing on Eads Bridge.
They point out that the structure joins the hearts of the two cities and that it would be impossible to construct another bridge so well situated for use of industry and trade.

This story is published exclusively in Times from the Byrd party or from special correspondents sent to it to report on the expedition in the Far North.

LITTLE AMERICA, Antarctica, Jan.
25.—Our front yard was full of whales this morning. While we were going over to breakfast, the familiar faraway and irregular puffing sound of the whales' blowing was heard. As it was the first time they had been heard from camp, it was certain they must be near. Cracks have been opening up on the bay for some time, and there is one large crack running west and beginning a little more than a mile from the camp.
Sure enough, the feathery spouts of whales could be seen there against the glistening background of pressure ice.

In a short time nearly everyone in camp was on the way down to the opening. Starting in a small crack not far out from the cape at the north side of Ver-Sur-Mer Inlet, it opened up quickly and at the pressure ridge was about 30 feet wide. It seemed to be full of whales. Their shining heads, black on top and white underneath, shot far out of the water as they came to the surface and blew, literally standing on their tails. How many there were it is difficult to say, but there were at least 10 shooting out of the water, sometimes seven or eight together. They were not killers, but seemed more like the finners for which the bay is noted.

It was an astonishing sight. The day was beautifully clear, with a cold wind from the southwest which drove the temperature down below zero last night for the first time in many weeks. Thin ice which had been formed in the crack had been broken by the whales and lay in slushy crusts between open black pools.

The largest of these pools was where the crack ended in a mass of pressure and the huge uplifted caves and distorted figures of broken ice made a magnificent background.

It was on the edge of this pool that men gathered, excitedly taking pictures and gazing at the great shining creatures with amazement.
They were so near that as they came up one could reach out and touch them. Admiral Byrd leaned over and tapped one on the snout with his stick.

They blew almost in our faces and those on the leeward side were almost knocked down by the aroma. The water blower by the whales' exhalations shot up in a shower of spray and the double valve in the back of the head could be seen fully expanded. Then there was a deep coughing inhalation and the valve snapped shut with a clapping sound just before it reached the water. The mechanical action of this valve was most interesting.

Sometimes the whales merely lifted themselves to the surface so that their long pointed heads gluck but a few feet from the water, or they floated lazily up in a partly upright position and then sank back again. But occasionally one coming from farther below would shoot straight up in the air, 10 feet or more, and show the water, and seem to hang that way for a moment before sinking down again as straight as he rose. When two or three did this

Scene of New Egyptian Tomb Discovery

THE Mejdum pyramid, 50 miles south of Cairo, studied by archaeologists of the University of Pennsylvania Museum, who have found there one of the largest tombs ever discovered in Egypt.

Large Egyptian Tomb, Thought To Be 4700 Years Old, Discovered

Archeologist of Pennsylvania U. Expedition Reports 40 Mummies Already Have Been Found in Excavation at Mejdum.

By the Associated Press.
PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 27.—One of the largest tombs ever discovered in Egypt has been brought to light by an expedition of the University of Pennsylvania, which has been engaged in archaeological work at Mejdum, according to a report received at the museum from Alan Rowe, field director.

The tomb, known as a Mastaba and constructed of stone evenly laid, is about 320 feet long and 160 feet wide. While the name of the owner is unknown
it is thought that the tomb dates from the same period as the great pyramid of Mejdum, in the fourth dynasty, or about 2800 B. C.

"One of the most interesting discoveries in clearing this tomb is that the huge brick retaining walls were honeycombed with intrusive burials dating from the new empire of 2000 B. C. or later," Rowe reported.

"The individual graves so far found number 40. Many of them comprise carefully wrapped mummies in either anthropoid or rectangular coffins, some of them brilliantly painted with elaborate religious symbols and hieroglyphs."

Removal of debris that has accumulated in the original passagway leading to the inner chamber of the tomb was a long and arduous task, the director said. This was made more difficult by bad air in the passage, which on some occasions prevented the party from working longer than an hour.

World stocks will be somewhat reduced on July 1, 1930, from those on hand July 1, 1929, the report said, but the world acreage
probably will not be materially changed and yields per acre are not likely to be so low as in 1929,
when they were below average.

The report pointed out that world production of wheat was keeping pace with the increasing demand and that consequently the outlook for a general increase in prices is not favorable. Farmers of the United States, it asserted, must expect to meet continued heavy competition in export markets from

FARMERS WARNED NOT TO EXPECT HIGH PRICE ERA

LESSENER DEMAND
IN U. S. IN 1930

Reduction of Dairy Herds Advised—Gain in Fruit Acreage Noted, and Reduction Suggested.

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, Jan. 27.—The American farmer is advised by the Department of Agriculture that he may expect more favorable marketing conditions this year and a somewhat greater supply of labor at slightly lower wages, but is warned against imminent over-production in several lines.

The department's annual farm outlook report, issued for publication today, forecasts a lessened demand for farm products throughout the summer and fall, as compared with the same seasons of 1929, although an improved domestic market was predicted for the closing weeks of the year.

This report is regarded by the department as "probably the most important" of its annual economic studies. It is issued for the purpose of guiding the farmer in adjusting his production to meet the needs of the nation. It was compiled by farm experts and by economists of the Department of Agriculture.

"There is little in the wheat indication in the United States and other countries at present to indicate that prices for the 1930 crop or the United States will be much different from those prevailing for the 1929 crop, unless fall sown wheat suffers severe winter damage or the spring wheat acreage is reduced," the report said.

World stocks will be somewhat
reduced on July 1, 1930, from
those on hand July 1, 1929, the
report said, but the world acreage
probably will not be materially
changed and yields per acre are
not likely to be so low as in 1929,
when they were below average.

The report pointed out that
world production of wheat was
keeping pace with the increasing
demand and that consequently the outlook for a general increase in

The Red Dream

ONCE THERE WAS A MAN, NAPOLEON. By Joseph Delteil. (Ovick, Friede.)

THE identity of man is in his orientation. It is a dream, a row flying at the heels of a dream. My aim is to disentangle the dream, seize upon its central idea and pole-star in the writer of the dream. What a man does in life is but a sketch, some of the contrary, of what he dreams. We dream red and we dream grey, alas! The red dream is my passion. I have not heard enough to be a historian. The man who has been attracted by considerable attention in the literary circles of his own country, and forth both his attitude toward life and his purposes in retelling the story of Napoleon Bonaparte. As Delteil sees the matter, the "red dream" of the little world shaking Bonaparte was no less than "to cut those from Europe, divest himself of the Christian world and of old religion, to become a new man, a new Oriental life," and become master of a vast Eastern empire. Delteil sees in Napoleon's whole career nothing but the "arrow" of the man's desire to "bring the back of the 'red dream' of childhood." Once, in Egypt, the dream seemed about to become reality, only to fail at Acre; and we are told that had Napoleon succeeded at Acre, nothing could have kept him from the realization of his dream. All his battles from that time on, we are assured, were but preliminary to another attempt to undertake the dream, and all the constructive work at home was planned to that great end. It was the same "red dream," we read, that led him into Russia with a half million men, and there at the flying arrow came to earth. "What Delteil has written is not a study of Napoleon from a special point of view as a Napoleonic lyric on Napoleonism," "Napoleon," he says, "brought into the world a kind of religion, the religion of the religion of the future. Napoleon, and Jesus symbolize the only two religions which man has possibly made to life—Yes or No. One is the religion of 'here below,' the other is the religion of 'here above.' Does not this very fact of Napoleon call up in the mind of the reader some very important questions? Come unto me, ye who have muscle, sap and determination."

To paraphrase a famous saying of our Wilde on Browning, this is a sentimental Nietzschean—and so was Nietzschean.

It is a handy book and, one suspects, for wisdom truly bearded; but it was written with the sincerity of a rapture that very often approaches the incoherence of delirium. At times a touch of adrenergic ecstasy is to be felt, as when the slaying and looting in Egypt are being described. "Drunk with maiming" and "swells, they gambolled and swore gleefully while the fatty corpses lay strewn here and there like hieroglyphics. Crows hung croaking in a negro-pink sky." etc.

It would be interesting to know to what extent this delirium, if not hysterical, celebration of ruthless power may voice some mood abroad in France. The book is said to have been successful in the original—which hardly seems a hopeful sign, especially since the books are so decidedly in vogue all over the Western world. Many see in this a popular urge toward peace; but that may well be merely another indication of the universal confusion of our generation.

The third volume of Rupert Hughes' biography of George Washington will appear during the first week of February. Simultaneously the Walton Book Co. will release John Marshall's "Washington," evidently by way of shaming Hughes, though his name is not mentioned in the announcement. However, those who have seen advance copies of the Hughes book must have noted that there has been no intention on the part of the author to belittle the great Revolutionary leader. Quite the contrary is the truth, although Hughes does succeed in giving a very different conception of "the Spirit of Seventy-Six" from that which the orthodox historians favor.

TIGER! TIGER! By Honore W. Morrow. (William Morrow & Co.)

John B. Gough, who flourished three-quarters of a century ago, was a famous booze-fighter in a double sense. He was both a drunkard and a temperance agitator. The late Dr. Lyman Abbott once stated that "the history of the temperance movement in this country was the story of John B. Gough." This may be an exaggeration, but it serves to indicate the impression made by Gough. Mr. Morrow here tells the man's story for a generation that, according to some, has outgrown liquor.

The Week's New Films

By NIE

THERE is considerably more appeal for the average movie goer in George Arliss' "The Green Goddess," at the Grand Central, than there was in his masterful "Diogenes." As a play this latest screen offering does not rank with the story of the English Prime Minister but it has everything demanded by the rank and file of cinema followers in the way of thrills and easily understood drama. Mr. Arliss played it upon the stage and some years ago he made it into a silent movie but the present talking screen version is the best of his three efforts. The scenes are laid in the Himalayan mountains where the English educated Baron of Rukh is about to take vengeance upon three British travelers, a woman and two men who have fallen into his hands after their airplane is wrecked. The Baron's three brothers are under sentence of death for murder in India and he, with Oriental cunning, is determined to exact an eye for an eye. How two of the hostages are freed—the woman and the man the hero audience would have picked for liberty—by a squad of airplanes makes a snappy finish to a most entertaining melodrama. "The Green Goddess" is finely played which might be expected from a man used to Mr. Arliss, H. B. Warner, Alice Joyce and Ralph Forbes.

Old Man River

THE story of "Cameo Kirby," at the Fox, begins in New Orleans in 1850 when, according to the movie historians, Dixie was the favorite tune of the South and up-river planes flourished in the gambling houses. Cameo was a river gambler who took planters for their bank rolls on trips up and down the river but reformed when he fell in love with the daughter of one of his victims. The reformation is not brought about in an easy manner. Suicides and near murders play a hand in the proceedings and once Cameo is chastened with extinction at the hands of a mob. Being the leading man he was perfectly safe. Movie makers simply can't kill the hero of a musical-melodrama and "Cameo Kirby"—the picture, and the man, is full of theme songs and incidental melodies sung delightfully by Harold Murray and Norma Terry.

Underworld Evenings

NORMA TALMADGE makes her new talk in a screen star in "New York Nights" at Loew's. All of the novelty to the show is confined to the fact that Miss Talmadge is talking, right out in the open, for the first time. The story is a combination of backstage life and song pluggers and characters, a plot well known to cinema fans by this time. It is well enough done but not very interesting.

A Revival

YEARS ago the lamented Wallie Field made the picture "Burnt Up." Maybe it had another title then but the story has been taken from the shelf, dusted off, polished up a little here and there and made over into a film for Richard Arlen and Mary Brian at the Ambassador this week. There is an exciting automobile race with a most realistic smash-up at the finish. Out of the wreckage Mr. Arlen emerges, a trifle dazed but knowing enough to fall into Mary's waiting arms just at the moment when the time came to end the picture and go into Ed Lowry's stage show. "Burnt Up" is just a pleasing little affair.

Dancing On

AT the Missouri Theater "Salty" continues for another, and final, week with Marilyn Miller still delighting large audiences with her songs and dances.

JAY C. FLIPPEN, COMEDIAN, HEADS UNIT SHOW AT ST. LOUIS

Pierre White, Municipal Opera Baritone, Also Appears; Richard Dix on Screen.

Jay C. Flippen, comedian, heads an interesting unit show, "Doin' Things," at the St. Louis Theater this week, and in addition there is Pierre White, baritone of last summer's municipal opera company, still calling for Chloe in the dismal swamp.

Unit shows run to a sameness, but "Doin' Things" has points of its own. First, Flippen, whose carefully studied nonsense carries a touch of novelty; second, Bert Nagel, amusing impersonator of a back fence tom cat; third, Fatsy and Mickey, specialty dancers; fourth, the Manor Twins who do a tap dance on their toes; and, fifth, an attractive chorus of steppers, including Betty Dora, Betty Fox, Thelma Lyons and Gertrude Young, each of whom has something of her own to offer.

The motion picture is "Seven Keys to Baldpate," Richard Dix's first venture in the talkies—an exceptionally entertaining comedy melodrama which ought to do much to take Dix out of the eclipse he has been in for the last few months.

Miss Freilinghuyzen is a member of a prominent family in the East and was a classmate of a number of last season's debutantes at Miss Porter's School in Farmington, Conn., until her graduation last year, when she was presented to society. She is a granddaughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Henry O. Havemeyer, who left a notable collection of paintings to the Metropolitan Museum of Art.

Mr. Carleton is a graduate of St. Paul's School in Concord, N. H., and is a junior at Yale. He is a cousin of Mrs. Josephine Salorgne Scullin, 4639 Maryland avenue, and has many friends in Dublin among the colony of prominent St. Louisians who have summer homes there.

Mrs. Arthur Ord French-Brewster, who has been visiting her mother-in-law, Mrs. Geraldine French-Brewster, in London, for the past month, has returned to New York for the winter. After a few days' stay there they will go to Pontresina, Switzerland, for the winter sports.

Mrs. French-Brewster was before her marriage Miss Frances Clover of St. Louis. She has made her home in Europe for several years. Mrs. George Hill Goddard, 4222 West Pine boulevard, will depart the middle of February for the East and will sail Feb. 22 from New York for the West Indies cruise. She will be accompanied by a party of Eastern friends.

Her daughter, Miss Nana Goddard, will leave a hospital today for her home, where she will recover from a recent serious illness. Invitations were received this morning from Mrs. Devereux D. Robinson for a bridge luncheon on Feb. 5, at the Forest Park Hotel. Before the talk, at 7 o'clock dinner will be given for Prof. Morise at the Kings-Way. The secretary, Mrs. George Stead, is in charge of the dinner.

The French Readers will meet Thursday night at 8 o'clock at the home of Mrs. Study, 4539 McPherson avenue, to give a reading of Alexander Dumas' play, "Francillon." The readers will be Mrs. de Lecluse, Miss Odette de Lecluse, Mrs. Study, Mr. de Lecluse and Henry Retailiau.

New York Day by Day

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, Jan. 27. DIARY of a modern Peggy: Up singing in the bath until someone rapped next door. No did I blame them soever. No to walk and stopped in to see Ray Long Jr., who said he did not want to be an editor like his daddy because it was just "planning and pasting."

Home to find an absorbing letter from a man who lost his fortune in New York four years ago and is in a South African village of 500 souls, a derelict yet happy philosopher. Then to an afternoon tea with my wife and to see some ship models, which fascinate me more than great paintings.

All evening at my typewriter, having promised to deliver a speech by morning post, but at midnight had finished but four lines, so abandoned it. And in despair awake until the coming of dawn.

NUMERABLE beauty and hair-dressing parlors in New York are able to make weekly expenses with the Saturday afternoon rush. Eds. of smartly gowned women wait in line at the entrance for their Saturday chance. On Broadway it is frequently necessary to make appointments two weeks in advance for that day.

It is the day women business executives have the care lines of the week removed with facial. Parky little girls of the small felt hats must have a Saturday bob to enhance charms with boy friends. Old, young and middle-aged want their manures. And so on. Something about the intimacy of beauty salons makes tongues wag and revealing secrets to Yvonne, Adele and Nina.

Hair parlors have become levees through which high scandals of the town are sifted. A feminine familiarity that would be impossible elsewhere is bred instantly. Above the whirl of drying machines, even we husbands waiting in ante-rooms are able now and then to hear salty rumors.

AFTER all, men are greedier for gossip than women. We may greet it with a slight shoulder shrug and a disarming little smile, but secretly we "eat it up." More reputations are torn to tatters by men in speekeezy backrooms than over tea cups in the drawing rooms.

I KNOW one of those loose wristed male butterfly gossip who invariably has a juicy morsel of scandal at his tongue's end, and I profess to a certain abhorrence publicly, but secretly am always tickled pink when he prances in.

THERE an older generation "dished the dirt." It was a fountain of idle gossip and groundless rumor. But modern shops with their mannequins decked out in white tied glitter have the chill of a hospital receiving ward. The walls are no longer adorned with prints of Mand S. or John L. The pinkish glamour of the Police Gazette has given way to the glazed opulence of periodicals featuring riding-to-hounds and gossip of Newport. One row of individual mugs with painted lodge emblems or other insignia of one's place in the business world: The Eddie and Gussie, who between shaves or hair cuts could plink off a tune on the banjo or guitar, are missing. The slightly rebellious story about the Pullman porter and the dear old lady has given way to a polite reference to the stock market or another fall of the French Cabinet. And for those of us who cup a wily ear for a little gossip, it is a pity.

SO FAR—and it is none of my business, but I'm pouting again—all I have seen hostesses do in tea rooms is to run off with the menus.

AND while I'm so super critical here's a telegram from way out yonder in Des Moines with a sting: "We are pretty fed up reading about your epats. Have you no other accomplishment?" I do a fairly good string trick. (Copyright, 1930.)

Charged with Laziness—

Guilty Simply of Acidity!

More than one man today is misjudged and unjustly penalized because of a not understood physical condition rather than any lack of willingness or ability.
So many of us are only half ourselves, only fifty percent efficient, because we are victims of an insidious condition of acidity! That persistent tired feeling—that clouded mind—that lack of dash and fire—that missing punch that decides so many situations in business—are all usually due to an acid system.
Acidity is brought on by our unnatural eating, excessive smoking and irregular hours. It impairs digestion, and causes fermentation and putrefaction in the intestines and drags us down physically and mentally.

A remarkably new corrective of acidity has been developed by a famous 100-year-old pharmaceutical house in Germany.

This new, improved magnesia comes in the form of small white tablets called Magnesia Oxide which do not have to be chewed, but may be swallowed whole.

Magnesia Oxide, upon contact with the acid in the stomach, generate nascent, or active, oxygen. Now, active oxygen, as any doctor will tell you, when generated within the digestive tract does just the things required for acidity. It stimulates the secretion of the alkaline mucus. It checks the putrefaction and fermentation in the gastro-intestinal canal. It exercises a stimulating effect upon the activities of the intestinal walls and aids the movement of the bowels.

All three effects are necessary to the true relief of acidity and Magnesia Oxide supply them in a perfect natural manner.

5-Day Acid Test

See for yourself how much acid has to do with your run-down condition and that persistent feeling of tiredness. Make this 5-day acid test. Get a package of Magnesia Oxide from Walgreen Drug Stores or any other drugstore on our money-back guarantee. Take two after each meal for five days. Note the pick-up in your pep and vigor. Mark the new peace of your stomach and nerves. If five days' test doesn't show you a decided improvement in your health, return the balance of the Oxide to your druggist and he will refund your money.

Thank Goodness! No More Liquid Cod Liver Oil for Us

Chemist Extracts Vitamins From Cod Liver Oil and Puts Them in Sugar Coated Tablets.

TAKE YOUR VITAMINS STRAIGHT

For one hundred years Cod Liver Oil has been recognized by physicians and laymen as the remedy supreme for malnutrition.

It is the leading tonic and reconstructive in wasting diseases and in convalescence.

In children it promotes growth of all body cells, especially bones and teeth and is the one valuable remedy for rickets.

For people who lack rich red blood, are rundown and need more strength, energy, vigor and activity of mind and body there is nothing so quick in beneficial action as Cod Liver Oil.

But men of science have long known that it is the Vitamins in Cod Liver Oil and not the Oil itself that brings robust health and strength to sickly people.

And surely there is not a man, woman or child in this wide world who relishes Cod Liver Oil. It is unpleasant to the taste—unpalatable—hard to digest.

But now that all that's good and health-creating in Cod Liver Oil put into sugar-coated tablets and all the horrid tasting oil thrown away—people ought to take Cod Liver Oil this new way—and there are millions of them that can rejoice and be exceedingly thankful.

For now you can get these precious tablets at any drug store in America and every time you take two of them keep this fact in mind—TWO OF THESE TABLETS ARE EQUAL TO ONE TEASPOONFUL OF VITAMIN TESTED, NORWEGIAN COD LIVER OIL.

Demand McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Extract Tablets and remember when you take 2 tablets you are getting into your system the equal of one teaspoonful of pure Cod Liver Oil—no other laboratory in the world dare make such a claim as every pharmacist knows and here's another thing to remember: you can get the beneficial Vitamins of Cod Liver Oil winter and summer when you take these precious tablets.

If you are one of the millions who take Cod Liver Oil why not try McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Extract Tablets for a month or two. Remember that these vitalizing tablets are helpful of Vitamins A and D and are equally as good for any ailment or rundown condition for which cod liver oil is prescribed—Take your Vitamins straight. 60 tablets, 60 cents. IN 1875, an earnest young man began to practice medicine. As a family doctor, he treated many cases of constipation. He soon saw the harm in common purges and began to seek something better. Out of his experience was born a famous prescription now in wide use.

This prescription was written thousands of times. It proved an ideal laxative for old and young. Children like its pleasant taste. Older people like it because it doesn't cause discomfort. It is a mixture of fresh herbs and other pure ingredients; thoroughly effective for the most robust of men. Stimulates the normal muscular action of the digestive tract. So its use will not become a habit. As people saw how marvelously the di-

6790 OF 7000 IN TOWN BLIND FROM TRACHOMA

Anatolian Village Has No Lights No School and No Hospital.

By the Associated Press.
ADYAMAN, Turkey, Jan. 27.—Now that communications have been opened partly in Turkey's long-isolated turbulent Eastern provinces, travelers are bringing news of the existence of Adiyaman, the town of the blind.

In the dusty, sandy district of Hismansour, 70 miles from the city of Malatya, lies this town of whose 7000 inhabitants 6790 are wholly or partly blind due to trachoma.

It is a village without sound except for the tapping of hundreds of canes on the streets as the residents grope their way through life, blind from childhood until death.

Utterly disregarded by the old regime of the Sultans, the village has for centuries been without a school or hospital. Without solace or help its peasant population, stricken generation after generation by trachoma, has made its living painfully through farming and herding.

Five times a day, year after year, this population has filled the village mosque to pray. Their prayers have not mentioned their affliction, for according to Moslem faith, complaints arouse the wrath of Allah.

The town is unlighted at night for there are only a handful of villagers who could see by any light. Adiyaman is probably the only place in Anatolia where Moslem women wear no veils. For the women of Adiyaman, religious as they are, no veils are necessary beyond the veil of universal blindness which hides a woman even from her father and husband and child.

The government is trying to combat trachoma there and in the surrounding district. Doctors have been dispatched to the province and clinics opened. Already, within a brief period, the Government has spent $75,000 on the treatment of 155,144 trachoma cases, including the entire population of blind Adiyaman. #### Another Large Crop.

Unless adverse conditions develop between now and harvest another large crop of winter wheat will be produced in 1930, the economist said. They figured that if yields and abandonment equaled the average of the last 10 years, the acreage seeded would result in a production of about 578,000,000 bushels which would be only slightly less than the large production of 578,000,000 in each of the last two years.

Durum wheat prices will probably continue relatively low for another season, the report said, unless acreage in the United States is further curtailed or production in other competing countries is reduced. Growers were advised to watch carefully developments in North Africa and Southern Italy during the next 10 months in order to judge how large an acreage best may be planted in the United States.

Referring to the general market for farm products the report said:

"The domestic market may improve later in the year, but it is unlikely that the demand for farm products in the summer and fall of 1930 will be as good as during last summer and fall," the report said. "The demand for some farm products already has been affected by the decline in industrial activity since last June. Butter, cotton and wool have been noticeably affected, and apples, potatoes and grains have fared thus far to make the usual seasonal price advances."

"The outlook for farm mortgage financing and for marketing credits is more favorable than a year ago, but on the other hand the outlook for production credit appears less satisfactory in most of the South," the report said. "A somewhat larger supply of labor for farm work will be available probably at slightly lower wages during the first half of the year. The general price level for farm machinery is expected to remain about the same as during the last four years, while there is no evidence of an immediate change in prices for fertilizers.

Pointing out that the acreage and production of cotton in the last five years, except for 1927, has been at comparatively high levels, they said, "It seems certain that any increase at present would be unwise." "Hog prices in 1930 are expected to average at least as high as in 1929 and possibly higher," the report continued. "A reduction in slaughter supplies is indicated, but this probably will be partially offset by a decrease in foreign and domestic demand for hog products."

Commenting on the dairy situation, the report said: "It is not as bad as would appear from present butter prices, but unless dairy herds are closely culled and more heifers sent to slaughter there will be a further increase in the size of the dairy herds in 1931 and 1932."

The fruit situation was outlined as follows: "New plantings of apples are justified only where conditions are unusually favorable for high quality production. Considerable increase in the bearing acreages of grapefruit and orange is expected. Probability of heavy grape production and low prices continues. "Cantaloupe prices probably will be lower this year in the early producing sections, and a moderate decrease in acreage in the intermediate and late sections is recommended in order to raise prices to the level of a few years ago. Watermelon growers should plant a somewhat smaller acreage."

ice, and said they would be absorbed in the office of the Justice Department on an equal basis with those already in service. Wants Use of Subpoena Limited. Representative Cochran, (Dem.) Missouri, asked Mitchell to give him assurance that dry agents would not use Federal court subpoenas on large industrial concerns to obtain information. He charged that dry agents had summoned officers of the American Can Co. and the Corn Products Co. from St. Louis to Springfield, Ill.

Mitchell answered that he did not believe in considering questions of that kind during the formulation of legislation of the character before the committee. He explained he did not plan to make promises of what he was going to do, but added, "We do the best we can under the law. The Department of Justice stands for law enforcement."

Declines to Discuss Pledge.

Representative Stone, (Rep.) Oklahoma, asked Mitchell if district attorneys should not be asked to take a pledge of total abstinence. The Attorney General said he recently wrote a letter on that subject, which he would submit to the committee, but he declined to discuss the matter before the group.

Mitchell said co-operation between the departments on the permits could be expected.

Representative Cochran said he proposed an amendment to the Williamson bill to provide for a $10,000 bond for each prohibition agent in order that persons who suffered physical or personal damage from them could institute suit for damages. Asked what he thought of it, Mitchell said he had considered it, but did not commit himself.

George Karros, Richmond Heights, Stopped in Auto Near City Limits.

After closing his restaurant at 14th and Olive, George Karros, of Richmond Heights, was held up by two men who stopped his automobile in an alley in the rear of his home, 4401 E. 14th St., and robbed him of $400. Mr. Karros, whose business is a soft drink place at 14th and Olive, was released 30 minutes later by a patrolman. A suspect identified by Karros as being the man who shot at him, was taken to the police station by a patrolman passing the confession of Charles Connors, 1329 Hamilton avenue, was told by the patrolman that he had been held up for $50 shortly after he opened the store yesterday morning. Elwood Conard, clerk in a drug store at 4070 Kennerly avenue, was held up and robbed of $15 by two men who made so little noise that another clerk behind a prescription counter was unaware of the holdup. A delivery boy for Frank C. Cox, druggist at 3201 Lucas avenue, was robbed of $18.50 by two Negroes who overpowered him in front of 1113 North Channing avenue, as he was delivering an order to that address after a telephone call had been received asking that change for $20 be sent with the merchandise.

Three real estate mortgage bonds worth $2000 and $21.75 in cash were taken from the house of Edward Helfrich, 6030 Michigan avenue, in the absence of the family.

Other burglaries: Miss Grace Hargis, 1440 Grege avenue, $50 and jewelry worth $175; Anthony Pupillo, 4450 Margaretta avenue, $250 in jewelry and clothing; millinery store of Miss Lillian Pearce, 3024 South Grand boulevard, silk hose valued at $150.

Arrested when a snatched-off shotgun bulging under his coat attracted attention, Carl Ragdale, 18 years old, admitted taking the weapon from the office of Dr. J.

Leister Wood, 4401A Natural Bridge avenue. He said he was taking the gun to a poolroom to sell it. He implicated another youth.

Dr. Wood told police the shotgun was the property of the Natural Bridge Bank, across the street from his office, and had been placed with him for use in the event of a holdup. Dr. Wood said a watch and clock also had been stolen from his office, but Ragdale denied taking them.

A fragment of a watch chain dangled from the pocket of Lavane St. James, 19-year-old Negro, arrested for investigation. Elias Heller, furniture dealer at 3634 Franklin avenue, who was held up last Tuesday by a Negro who took $10.75 and matched his watch and part of his chain, identified St. James as the robber and the chain fragment as part of the loot. The prisoner admitted selling the watch. He also confessed a $175 holdup at the Bookman Real Estate Co., 2417 Franklin, Thursday. He escaped from the Federal Reformatory at Chillicothe, O., last Dec. 30.

BRAN WAFFLES WHOLESOME

All kinds of Waffles Are Popular Articles of Food. Make them with one and one-half cups flour, three-fourths cup bran, four teaspoons baking powder, one teaspoon salt, two tablespoons sugar, one cup sweet milk, two eggs, white and yolks beaten separately, one-half cup melted shortening.

Sift dry ingredients. Beat egg yolks and add milk. Add to dry ingredients and mix well. Add melted shortening. Fold in stiffly beaten egg whites. Bake in hot waffle iron until the mixture ceases to steam.

FACTS TO REMEMBER CONCERNING FISH

Few Housekeepers Have Much Knowledge About the Finny Tribe.

Fish should be eaten while fresh and in season. Fish contains albumen, and as albumen (which is like the white of egg) clots at a low temperature, it should be cooked at a temperature below boiling point of water.

As the white-fleshed fish is considered more easy of digestion than the red-fleshed, it should be selected for invalids, convalescents or those suffering from weak digestion.

How to Clean Fish. Remove the scales by drawing a knife over the fish, beginning at the tail and working toward the head. Wipe the fish inside and outside with a cloth wet in cold, salted water; then wipe with a clean dry cloth kept for the purpose.

Methods of Cooking Fish. Fish suitable for broiling are: split mackerel, white fish, cod, shad, trout, etc., sliced halibut and salmon, white smelts and small fish. To broil—brush with melted fat, sprinkle with flour, salt and pepper and cook over a flame or clear fire.

Fish suitable for baking whole are: Whitefish, cod, haddock, small salmon, shad. Follow directions for baked fish.

Fish suitable for boiling are: salmon, halibut, cod, haddock, trout, etc.—Cook in piece of cheesecloth. Add one tablespoon vinegar and one tablespoon salt to each quart of water.

Fish suitable for frying are the white-fleshed. Cook in deep fat or sauté in a little fat in a frying pan.

VEGETABLE DISHES FOR WINTER MEALS

Canned Vegetables Will Make as Savory Dishes as the Fresh Articles.

When fresh vegetables are scarce and expensive the wise housewife will turn to the canned variety. By the use of skill and ingenuity in their preparation she will have little difficulty in banishing her family's regrets for the fresh peas, corn, asparagus and lima beans of the summer months.

The main objective in preparing canned, or, for that matter, dried vegetables for the table should be variety and the accentuation of their original flavors. The first can be achieved by a willingness to try new recipes. As for the latter, a little sugar, used not as a sweetener but as a seasoning agent, will do wonders in bringing back the flavors which the vegetables possessed when they were picked in the garden.

Corn and Pepper Scallop.
To two cups of canned corn and one-half cup milk, one finely chopped green pepper, one finely chopped red pepper, one teaspoon sugar, one teaspoon salt, and one-eighth teaspoon pepper. Fill greased individual ramekins one-third full. Then sprinkle with fine bread crumbs. Add another layer of the corn mixture. Sprinkle again with bread crumbs, and continue the process until the ramekins are full. Sprinkle bread crumbs on top, and dot each ramekin with a half-teaspoon of butter. Bake for 10 or 15 minutes in an oven at 450 degrees.

Savory String Beans.
Shred two medium-size onions and saute them in bacon fat until tender and lightly browned. Add one pint strained, canned tomatoes. Season with one teaspoon salt, one-fourth teaspoon pepper, dash of cayenne, two cloves and two teaspoon sugar. Bring to a boil and add one quart canned string beans. Simmer for about 15 minutes. Add a teaspoon of butter and serve.

PICKLED STUFFED PRUNES
Nice to Make When Homemade Pickle Supply Runs Low.

Pickled, stuffed prunes are a delicate relish for cold meats. To make them take one pound prunes, two cups sugar, one teaspoon cinnamon, one cup vinegar, one-fourth teaspoon cloves and one lemon. Soak prunes overnight. Cook after boiling point is reached for five minutes. Bring vinegar, sugar, lemon juice and spices with slices of lemon rind to a boil. Add prunes and cook until syrup is thick. Pit prunes and place a nut meat in the cavity.

Pack the prunes into jars and pour over them the boiling syrup. Seal at once. Allow to stand a few days before using.

Fig Salad.
Arrange one large grapefruit divided into sections and two oranges divided into sections on shredded lettuce—top with strips of figs—cover with chopped walnuts and mayonnaise.

OVER 90% OF THESE DOCTORS SAID "YES"

Group of Physicians Favor Natural 100% Bran as Laxative.

Perhaps you are one of the millions of people in this country who suffer from atonic constipation—bowel irregularity resulting from intestinal sluggishness. Here is expert advice for its relief—the opinion of thousands of physicians on this vital subject.

Not long ago ten thousand doctors were asked this question: "Do you believe that raw natural 100% bran is the best form of bran for the relief of constipation?"

93% of the answers were "Yes." Pillsbury's Bran is natural 100% bran—nothing added, nothing taken away. Doctors say natural 100% bran is best. Think over these two statements—then go to your grocer tomorrow, get a package of Pillsbury's Bran, and start the natural relief of that aggravating and dangerous condition. The unpleasant results of constipation are well known—headaches, lassitude, yellow complexion, loss of sleep, nervousness, loss of vitality and increased susceptibility to more serious diseases.

Add roughage to your diet—primitive man ate roughage, and had no constipation. Pillsbury's Bran is roughage in a particularly effective form. You can use it to prepare many delicious foods—muffins, tea cakes, apple cakes, macaroons, doughnuts, etc.—the recipes are on the Pillsbury package. You can sprinkle it over salads, or mix it with cereals. You can eat it as it comes from the package, with cream and sugar. No matter how you eat it, Pillsbury's Bran is the best kind of bran—natural 100% bran, recommended by the overwhelming majority of doctors.

ACCOMPANIMENT FOR SALADS

This Is a New Way of Serving Cheese With Salad Course.

The custom of serving cheese with either a salad or a fruit salad is growing in popularity. In some cases the cheese is used in a combination dish of the order of cheese mold for which the recipe follows: Beat one cupful of Neufchatel or cream cheese with a fork until smooth. Then add one tablespoonful of melted butter, one-quarter cupful of sweet cream, a dash of cayenne pepper and one cupful of chopped nuts. Chopped olives or olives may be substituted for the nuts. Thoroughly mix and shape into an oblong on a serving plate. Chill well before serving as an accompaniment to a simple green salad.

NEW WAY TO COOK STEAK

Always Makes a Hit With Those Who Never Tasted It Before.

Rub the bottom of a pan with a clove of garlic, then add a piece of beef steet chopped fine and two tablespoons butter. When this is melted and hot, put in the steak (porterhouse or sirloin). When browned on both sides, cut the surface in several places with a sharp knife. Reduce heat, turn the steak frequently and baste with the juices.

As it begins to cook, add one-half cup green pepper, three-fourths cup finely chopped celery, two tablespoons chopped parsley and a few stuffed olives chopped fine. Sprinkle the steak with paprika while cooking and salt after taking up to serve.

RED CORN MAKES MANY PASTY COMBINATION DISHES

One of This Product is the Foundation for a Savory Chowder.

Red corn is one of the stand-outs in the late winter when the average family is anxiously awaiting the arrival of the early spring.

While many home cooks do not know how to serve canned corn in pasty dishes, the fact remains that this product makes tempting chowders, puddings, soups and fritters. The recipe for an appetizing corn chowder follows:

Take two slices of fat salt pork, one onion, three cups diced boiled potatoes, two cups boiling water, one cup canned corn, four cups hot milk and salt and pepper to taste.

Cut the pork into small pieces and fry it out. In this cook the sliced onion. Strain the fat into another receptacle and put the potatoes into the strained fat. Add boiling water, corn and hot milk. Season with salt and white pepper, bring to the boiling point and serve with a cracker on each soup plate.

Best Greens.
Clean the best greens and cook them in salted water until tender. Mix them with a white sauce which has been seasoned with a bit of Worcestershire, add a minced, hard-cooked egg, place in individual custard cups, cover with buttered cracker crumbs and brown in a hot oven.

STAR O' HORTON WINS ELKS' DAY HANDICAP AT NEW ORLEANS TRACK

By the Associated Press. NEW ORLEANS, Jan. 27.—For the first time in 17 years, Sunday was an actuality at the grounds track yesterday afternoon. The occasion for the debut from the unwritten rule of Sunday racing was Elks' day.

The entire proceeds, including gate receipts from a crowd of 10,000 and the mutual betting proceeds, were turned over to the Elks' association to save the building from the Sheriff's sale. The turnout was the largest in the history of the fair grounds track.

O' Morn was the victor in feature race of 2,000 yards, from a field of 10. Dempsey, who had named in honor of the late Elks' turf writers. The distance was 2,000 yards.

At Philadelphia, Billy Jones, Philadelphia Negro, vs. Pete Latzo, Scranton; Tiger Jack Payne, New York, vs. Yago Okun, New York, light heavyweights; and Gabey Bardard vs. Pat Haley, Philadelphia, welterweights, each 10 rounds.

Horton Smith Real Leader Of Winter Golfing Troupe

By the Associated Press. NEW YORK, Jan. 27.—Gene Sarazen, stocky New Yorker, may have won the most money but the real leader of the winter golfing troupe is young Horton Smith of Joplin, Mo.

Thanks to his victory in the rich Agua Caliente open, Sarazen, former open titleholder, has enjoyed the most profitable winter of all his golfing brethren with cash prizes aggregating close to $11,500.

Smith, however, has given a sensational display of consistently brilliant play ever since the troupe left for the West late last fall. In the eight major winter tournaments in which he has played, the Joplin professional has won three, placed second once and tied for second twice.

Smith, on the other hand, played in practically all of the California "closed circuit" golfing tournaments with conspicuous success. He won the Pasadena, B. Leley and Portland, O., opens; placed second to Craig Wood in the Hawaiian open and tied for second at Agua Caliente and in the Los Angeles open.

These two were the big money winners. Leo Diegel and Walter Hagen have had no luck. Al Diegel won the "closed circuit" golfing tournament crown again, but has won little or no money in the open tournaments.

With the California season over for another year, the pros are heading today for San Antonio for the $7500 Texas open.

Other earnings approximated the following: Craig Wood, Bloomfield, N. J., $2600; Billy Burke, New York, $1850; Mortie Dutra, Tacoma, $1550; Tommy Armour, Detroit, $1550; Tony Manero, New York, $1550; Joe Kirkwood, Jr., Los Angeles, $1550; Bobby Cruikshank, New York, $1300; Ed Dudley, Wilmington, Del., $1100.

SPORT SALAD - By L. C. DAVIS

The Passing Show. CARNERA of the massive feet Took one good crack at Big Boy Pete. And promptly knocked him blooie.

Which indicates the killing clout. That we have read so much about. Was something more than hokey.

The flight was very short indeed. And there's no doubt the husky Swede. For Primo was a set-up. Three times the "Big Boy" hit the floor.

And after he had made it four He just refused to get up. The giant son of sunny 'I'. No doubt propels a wicked mitt.

With my hands behind it. And if he ever learns to box. To do those devastating socks. No clinch the boys will find it.

Quite So. Jack Johnson predicts that with proper training and instructions in the so-called many art, Primo Carnera will be invincible. Which is quite a boost for Young Stripling.

With more muscle than Mussoil and bigger feet than Sultane Simpson Primo should go far.

As an exponent of bigger and better foot work this Italian giant is going to bear watching. Keep your eye on his feet.

As for "Big Boy" Peterson he has dwindled down to a point where he will have no trouble in hiding his light under a bushel.

Jackie Fields Wins Over Vince Dundee

The cauliflower industry would be in a bad way if there should ever be a shortage of Dundee.

Which by the way is a remote contingency as long as the Mussoil Government functions in Italy.

See where Clyde Wares, the former big nose of the Browns, is going to join out with the Cardinals as coach. That ought to settle the question of broad-casting.

MISSOURI PACIFIC SETS OPERATING INCOME RECORDS

The Missouri Pacific Railroad recorded new highs both in total operating revenues and in net railway operating income in 1929, according to the annual financial statement just released by President L. W. Baldwin. Total operating revenues for 1929 were $135,807,315, exceeding by $2,517,670 the previous high total of $133,289,645 established in 1926. Last year's net railway operating income totaled $24,554,185.49 and exceeded by $2,508,648.26 the total for 1928 of $22,045,537.21, which was the previous high record in Missouri Pacific history. Gross operating revenues on the Missouri Pacific for December totaled $11,012,138, compared with $10,855,595 for December, 1929, and net railway operating income was $1,736,307 last December, as compared with $1,559,044 in December, 1928.

While total operating revenues and net railway income on the Gulf Coast Lines for 1929 did not establish new all-time records, they closely approached the record totals for those properties and each exceeded the total for the preceding year.

TO BUILD HIGHWAY
AS LINCOLN MEMORIAL

Association Plans to Seek Appropriations From Congress and Three Legislatures

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

CHANDLERVILLE, Ill., Jan. 27.

Plans for a 500-mile Lincoln memorial highway following the general route taken by the parents of Abraham Lincoln in their emigration from Kentucky to Illinois, and touching the more important points in Illinois, Kentucky and Indiana associated with the early life of the Civil War President, are awaiting action of the Illinois Department of Public Works, Allen T. Lucas, historian of the association fostering the highway, said today.

The association proposes, Lucas explained, to foster legislation appropriating half the cost of the road in the Legislatures of the three states and half from Congress.

Campaign for Funds.

"The House and Senate of Illinois passed a resolution last May," he said, "directing Gov. Emmerson to instruct the Department of Public Works and Buildings to make a survey of the proposed route, collect data for it as to location and cost of construction, and to report to the Governor with its recommendation."

"We are expecting the report almost daily. As soon as it is made public we expect to start an intensive drive for funds. Money collected will be used to send committees to Washington to further the interests of the highway with the Federal Government, to provide for printing a 117-page prospectus describing the route and points of interest along it, and to cover general expenses of the association."

Historical Markers.

"It is our plan to have markers all along the highway pointing out the spots of historical interest; the place where Abe Lincoln defeated Ashley Hickey in a wrestling match; the log cabin where Ann Rutledge died; the cemetery where she is buried; the home where young Lincoln split 500 rails for 10 yards of jeans cloth and countless other places."

"We have been assured that Kentucky and Indiana will ask for legislation appropriating funds for half the cost of that portion of the road located in those states, and we have the assurance of our Senators and many Illinois Congressmen that the Federal appropriation will pass."

E. O. McCann of Decatur, Ill., is secretary of the Lincoln Memorial Highway Association, Lucas said. In the drive soon to be started, persons contributing $1 or more will be made members.

FORMER KAISER WILHELM

CELEBRATES 71ST BIRTHDAY

Receives Hundreds of Telegrams and Letters and Many Flowers From Admirers.

By the Associated Press.

DOORN, Holland, Jan. 27.—Former Kaiser Wilhelm, for more than 11 years in exile, is 71 years old today, and had a quiet celebration.

He attended divine service with his family this morning. Later, he received the congratulations of his staff and servants. During the day the Hohenzollern flag floated on the castle and over the entrance gate.

He received hundreds of telegrams and letters and many flowers.

The former Crown Prince and Princess, Princess Adelbert, Prince August Wilhelm and the Duke and Duchess of Hesse, who arrived Saturday night for the birthday festival, ate luncheon and dinner yesterday with the former monarch.

WELL, WELL," said the M. D. to his dejected visitor. "What seems to be the matter with you?"

"Many things doctor. I'm horribly upset and really worried about my condition. I have a pain in the kitchen, a run down diningroom, a discolored and dislocated bedroom and suffer from general debility in the living-room."

"Sad case," said the M. D.—"very sad indeed, but quite common. It's a chronic condition caused by neglect and improper home furnishing nourishment. It makes itself manifest in the spring of the year and is termed by the profession, 'spring fever.' We can have you in good shape in no time if you will follow directions."

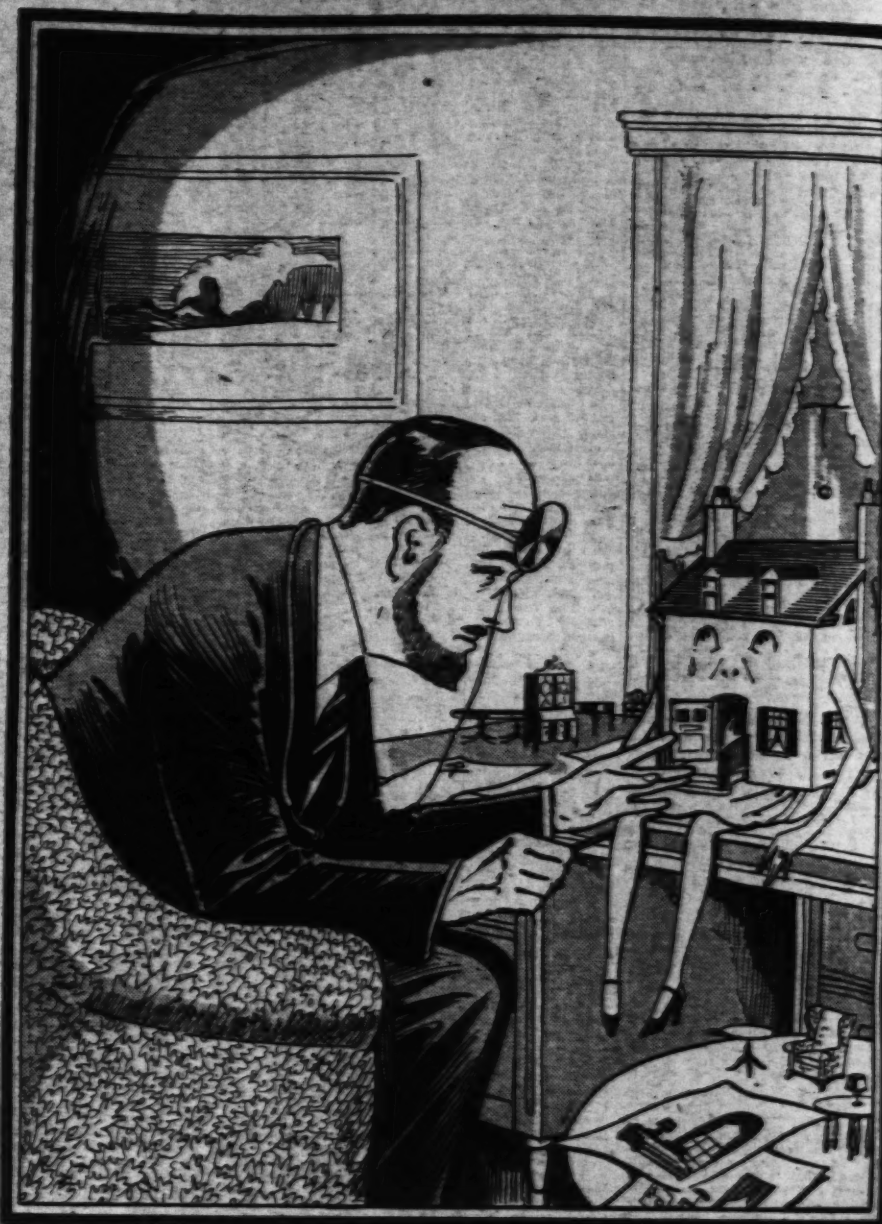

"Now open your door and let's see inside—wider—wider—don't be afraid" to open it. That's it—h-m-m-m. Pretty bad—pretty bad. This should have been attended to years ago. No use looking farther, I can imagine the rest after looking into your living-room.

"You are terribly run down. Sheer neglect, nothing else. Your home furnishing diet has not been properly balanced. You have not acquired the simple necessities, let alone the little luxuries that bring color into your life. You need a complete overhauling. It's a mistake to put a home on an eighteen year diet and abstain from beautiful things."

"Here is a prescription that will fix you up with economy and dispatch. Take it to UNION HOUSE FURNISHING COMPANY and have it filled. Just follow the directions, you'll be a fit family companion in no time."

A WOMAN

MOTHERING A HUSBAND

"BEFORE you've been married long, dearie, you'll find out that you must MOTHER your husband. All the wise old ladies used to warn all the foolish virgins. Then along came the new psychology to discover and prove the damage which can be done even to children by too intensive and incessant mothering. "Love them—but don't love them to death, to the death of their individuality and independence," became the warning.

If children can be too much mothered, it is at least as true—and as tragic—that the same thing can happen to husbands. Today it is an old wives' tale that a wife must be her husband's mother, that to her he is "just a little boy," or "the oldest of her children."

The new, intelligent wife chooses to be her husband's sweetheart, his comrade—not the maternal manager whom a man fears, white and red does not need and does resent.

How and why he reacts against her is accurately and entertainingly set forth in Inez Sebastian's short story, "Such a Good Sport," in the American Magazine for December. Readers of the Evening World's Motion Picture Magazine need no introduction to Miss Sebastian, and we hope that some of them will miss her brilliant analysis of the back-seat-driver wife, the maternally-minded meddler with her husband's destiny.

GREG, the husband in "Such a Good Sport," wanted to write short stories and live in Greenwich Village. Before he knew it, Janie had him tied to a typewriter in a newspaper office and to one room in a smart hotel—working her own friends to achieve such consummation, though Greg's more sensitive pride winced. The right people always liked Janie. "If Greg had taken up a bond-selling career," observed Miss Sebastian shrewdly, "she could have helped him to make thousands."

Even now she was far from satisfied. "As yet he did not suspect the powers she was holding in leash. Late in the summer she began to let them out, to remove their muzzle for a breathing space, let them run free for a moment or two. She stamped his employees—in a perfectly lady-like way—and Greg was advanced to the post of motion picture critic, with a signature and a raise in salary.

"And he told himself," she read, "that of course he was far better off than he'd have been blundering all the time on his own—but Janie was running his life, and it rankled so that he didn't care whether he ever sold stories or not. . . . He knew that he ought to be grateful to her for all that she had done for him, but he couldn't; he could only tell himself that she must think he was an awful boob, that he couldn't get anywhere unless she helped him. . . . How hard she was trying to make a success of him, so that she could be proud of her husband!"

HE had an idea all his own for achieving success—and he didn't dare tell Janie about it. "She would begin at once to pull strings, make suggestions, lace about him a new strait-jacket as irksome as the one he was wearing now. He felt like a gladiator of old, fighting with a man armed with net and sword. No matter which way he turned there was an idea of Janie's, a detritus dropped hint or a pertinent remark. . . . He was letting his feeling about Janie push him into wishing that he could lose his job and get another with which she couldn't interfere. But what was the use? Janie'd take on anything from building a skyscraper to digging a subway. No matter what he did, she'd help him!"

Finally, this much-mothered young man reached the point where—well, he didn't want to escape Janie, but "it was that eternal helplessness of hers that he wanted to escape." He seriously considered a trip to the North Pole. Personally, he thought a young man must travel at least as far, to free himself from a wife with a well-developed mother complex, but we're not telling whether or how Greg achieved personal liberty—you must read "Such a Good Sport" to find out. We have quoted enough of it to show how the self-respecting husband must react, in his wife, the maternal attitude of "I know what's best for you, dear, and I'll see that you get it."

YET even though another type of man may think he wants mothering in marriage, even though his wife honors him—they will be choosing the lesser part. This truth is delicately emphasized in Robert Nathan's new novel, "There is Another Heaven."

"She was always happiest with me when there was something to take care of," Nathan's Mr. Wuthers, who is obviously suffering from adult infantilism, says of his wife. "I am sure of it because I was happiest then, too. A woman feels motherly toward a man, or nothing. I mean, of course, a good woman. It is called the maternal instinct."

"Your father," admits Mrs. Wuthers to her grown-up son, in the impersonal candor of the heavy, only atmosphere, "never knew why I grew motherly in his arms. But he enjoyed it. It was what he wanted—a wife and mother all in one."

"Naturally," agreed the son. "All men do."

IRON MAN

By
W. R. Burnett

Author of "Little Caesar."

SYNOPSIS

Coke Mason, a dumb but clever middleweight prize fighter, has won a sensational bout with Prince Pearl, and now seeks the championship. Regan, Coke's boyhood pal and present manager, is shrewd and hardboiled. He is angered when Coke speaks longingly of Rose, his wife, who deserted him. Regan says she was so good. Coke meets a red-headed chorus girl.

CHAPTER 7

SPEED pulled a sweater over his head and sat at the rindia, watching Coke and a North Side tightbeaver. Coke, who never pulled his punches, was trying to keep from killing the young North Side. Regan and Riley were sitting near Speed, talking. Since the Prince Pearl go, Riley had been spending a good deal of time with Regan. He thought Coke was the coming champion, and said so. Regan wasn't so sure.

"He's certainly got a mean left," said Riley.

"Look at that," said Speed, turning to them.

Coke had jolted the tightbeaver with a left hook and the tightbeaver was backing away, holding up his gloves.

"I got enough," he said.

McNeil put a sweater over Coke's head, and Coke climbed out of the ring.

"Hello, Mason," called Riley. Coke came over to them.

"Well," said Regan, "still picking on cripples?"

"My hand slipped," said Coke. "I didn't mean to land so solid."

"How's the legs?" Riley inquired.

"One," said Coke.

"Go take a shower," said Regan, "and we'll run over and get a lunch."

"On me," said Riley.

"I'll take you up on that," said Coke. "I could eat awfully."

Regan turned to Riley.

"It's a good thing that bird's a natural," he said. "If he had trouble making weight it'd be just too bad."

"I like to eat," said Coke.

"Who don't?" said Riley. "I used to be a big eater myself, but my stomach went back on me."

"Somebody wants Coke on the phone," he said.

"Man or woman?"

"It's a man."

"Somebody want me?" asked Coke.

"Yeah," said Regan.

"Go talk for me, George. It may be that redhead."

"Got the gals chasing him now, huh?" said Riley.

"Go ahead, George," said Coke. "It's a man, dummy."

Coke went to talk on the phone.

"Listen," said Riley, "I didn't know you managers like to have your boys thick with women."

"Well," said Regan, "it's a long story."

"Something special?"

"Yeah," said Regan. "His wife ran away and left him, and he can't get over it. She was just a plain digger, but you can't make him believe that. I thought maybe if I could get him interested in couple of kids I could watch, he'd be a lot better off."

"Yeah," said Riley, "but it's risky."

Coke came running back, scowling.

"George," he said, "it was the redhead. She had some guy ask for me so I'd come to the phone. George, you got to help me out with that baby. She's sore at me."

"Well," said Regan, "I'll do what I can. Why don't you tell me things?"

"She's gonna use me or something," said Coke. "Good God, George, you know I can't have nothing like that getting out in the papers. Suppose my wife'd see it?"

Regan glanced at the North Pole, and walked away whistling.

"What's she gonna use you for, Coke?" asked Regan, trying to be patient.

"Breath of promises or something. Hell, I never promised her nothing. All I did was to be nice to her."

PENROD JASHBER

By Booth Tarkington

CHAPTER XIII
LITTLE RONALD GETS A MOUTHFUL.

PENROD sighed again, closed the stable doors, and stood in the melancholy half-darkness of the carriage house to ponder. A pleasant aroma came silently upon the air, warm and spicy, arousing some interest in the dejected boy; and he followed it to the source in the kitchen.

"G'wan away!" said Della. "Them little cakes is fr dinner, an' if yer gits 'em the way he us'ly does, yer ain't enough to go round."

"Oh, just one, Della!" Penrod pleaded. "The little cakes were fat brown little cakes, not flat cookies. Can't I have just one?"

"If I give you wan, will you eat 'em s'wan away?"

"Please!"

Della gave him one. "Well, keep the word fr wantin'," she said.

Penrod lifted the cake toward his mouth, and as he did so, a peep from Duke was heard outside the kitchen window, followed by the shrill triumphant cry of Ronald. Then, at this sound, reminder of the cause of all his woes, Penrod's hand, holding the cake, paused. A strange look came upon the face of Penrod.

"Well, if yer goin' to eat it, why don't you eat it an' s'wan away?" Della inquired.

"Guess I will wait," Penrod muttered hastily, and with the cake in hand, walked quickly out of the kitchen and into the dining room. Here, engaged in a delicate semi-chemical operation, with the sideboard as laboratory, he remained not more than seven or eight minutes, and when he issued forth the cake was still apparently intact; certainly he had not taken a bite of it. He went out into the yard and displayed himself before Ronald.

"Ho, Penrod!" cried the small visitor. "Watch me! I've learned how I can get Duke so mad with my little gun he almost bites himself!"

"I don't care anything about your old gun," Penrod said languidly. "I got sumpting better to think about."

"What you got?"

Penrod carelessly displayed the cake, gazed absently skyward, opened his mouth, and, with thumb and forefinger, delicately lifted the cake toward the orifice.

RONALD'S bright eyes emitted a purposeful gleam; he swooped like an arrow; his small hand shot out at Penrod's, and in a flash, he had the cake and was away.

"I'll catch you this time!" Penrod shouted. "I been practicing running, and I got you now. I'm going to take that cake away from you or break my neck!"

To settle this point and insure the latter alternative, Ronald, even in the act of ducking under Penrod's clumsily reaching arm, opened his mouth to its capacity, and the whole cake thereon, along with one great masticatory action attempted to swallow the thing in the forceful manner of an anasconda.

He did not succeed. Instead, he uttered a dreadful cry; his eyes protruded, and, after a period of terrible activity, he turned the squirt-gun straight into his mouth and there discharged it. This seeming but to increase his distress, he rushed, bellowing, to the hydrant and ardently applied his mouth thereto.

Greater suffering finally convinced him that water was not the remedy for his ailment, and he tried great drafts of air taken between heroic gasps. Then, relieved no more by air than by water, he gesticulated inanely for a time and finally became coherent in one vociferous word.

"Pop-PUH!"

He ran to the house, and the kitchen door slammed behind him; but still from the interior could be heard his searching appeals to his parent. Penrod stood listening for a few moments, while a better and a nobler expression shed a radiance upon his simple features; it was the look that comes to one who, after great turbulence, finds peace in his own soul. Nevertheless, there slowly penetrated an apprehension that the authorities might consider that he had gone too far, and he sought seclusion in the disused hayloft of the stable.

He returned to the house unobtrusively at dusk, softly ascending by the rear stairs to his own room. But his mother had heard him, and she came in. The faded light of a western window revealed a small, meek form, sitting with folded hands.

"What on earth did you do to Ronald?"

"Nothing."

"He says you poisoned him. He came in screaming, and he wanted to send for the doctor, but his papa wouldn't. Then he insisted on being put to bed. What did you do to him?"

"I didn't do anything."

"Penrod!" she spoke warningly. "Mm, I didn't. I had a cake and I just put a spoonful of red pepper and a little tabasco in the middle of it, and—"

"And you gave such a horrible thing as that to—"

"Oh, Mom. He came and grabbed it away from me and ate it up before I could stop him."

Mrs. Schofield shook her head sorrowfully. "We knew it had been pepper," she said. "Penrod, don't know what your father means to do to you."

However, just at this mo-

Entertaining at the White House

By Mrs. Calvin Coolidge

"I have often been asked to name some of my favorite books, and my reply has usually been 'People.' There is a song from one of our not new musical comedies about girls, which says something about 'the short, the fat, the lean, the tall; I don't give a rap, I love them all.' That is the way I feel about people, and I have been fortunate in being placed where I had an opportunity to gratify my taste."

Mrs. Coolidge and two of her White House pets.

REPAIRS and replacements are continually required in a house of the size and importance of that in which our Presidents live. During the years of the World War and the War President's illness little had been done and there were many things requiring attention. However, we were in residence for only a short time—less than two years—and we hesitated to undertake any extended work along this line. A little paint here and there to freshen up a bit was as far as we went until after the election of 1924, when my husband was given an additional four-year lease. During the following summer a number of improvements in the way of modern equipment were introduced. A new electric cleaner replaced the old, outworn apparatus, electric refrigeration was installed, two filters for softening water were added, also an incinerator. The temperamental elevator, which sometimes stopped before it reached the floor, was replaced by a more reliable one, and some changes were made in the kitchen paraphernalia.

To me the home of the Presidents is sacred ground, hallowed by the memories of those men whom our country has chosen to the high office. To live in it is to live in a shrine, and I could never understand the point of view of the souvenir hunters who took away mementoes to add to their strange collection. In the East Room the little tassels of the finishing braid on the edges of the brocade hangings at the windows had been pulled off as high as the hand could reach, and I was told that in times past pieces of the material with which the furniture was covered had been cut out. Upon one occasion the butler misunderstood a direction given him by the President, and instead of placing some silver ash trays in the Red parlor, he put them in the East Room during visiting hours. When the mistake was discovered a short time later, two of the trays were missing.

AT another time, we were entertaining a distinguished company of about 300 professional men at tea. One of the men of the secret service saw a guest putting a napkin in his pocket. He looked up and saw that his action had been observed, and with a smile, a trifle wry, he asked: "Paper, isn't it?" evidently thinking he was speaking to a fellow guest. "I think not," was the answer, but the napkin rested in his pocket. It so happened that the gentleman was known to the officer, for he had worked as an office boy in the same building in which this guest had his offices in a distant city. The following morning we had several people coming in for breakfast, which was served in the private dining room. I mentioned the incident to the man sitting on my left, who asked, "Don't you know what to do about that?"

"Yes," I replied. "I know several things to do, but what would you do?" "Why, send him a napkin ring," said he. For several days thereafter I was sorely tempted to purchase and send to the collector a souvenir ring with a picture of the White House on it.

In the fall of 1925, a secretary from the State Department was placed in charge of ceremonies, and it became his duty to arrange the details in connection with formal entertainments. Up to this time the personal secretary of the President's wife had discharged these duties. This change proved advantageous in every way, giving the secretary more time to devote to the ever-increasing duties devolving upon her and investing the one in charge of the social program with a cloak of authority. It is a problem to provide for the comfort of 2000 guests at an evening reception and to expedite their coming and going. On the morning after these events, the secretaries, the chief aides, and I had a conference in which we checked up on these matters and tried to evolve ways and means which would make the next reception run more smoothly.

OFTEN during Lent I gave musicales in the East Room with tea served afterwards in the State dining room. Musicians of note were extremely generous in coming to present programs at the White House, and I endeavored to gather a company of people who knew and appreciated the best in music. This was not difficult, for Washington is a city of music-loving people of discriminating taste, many of whom are finished musicians themselves.

For two seasons I had a series of garden parties, but seemed fated to draw unpleasant weather for this form of entertainment, and I became discouraged. Two of the garden parties of the first season were turned into indoor affairs, at which I received alone, for the President had taken a slight cold at the party of the previous week. Had added to it in attending a circus, and was confined to his room. However, these parties had an attraction of their own and proved to be amusing. The sun came out at noon on both occasions, and the doors were opened to the terraces and the south porch. The grass and the leaves of the trees were fresh and green, sparkling with drops of moisture as the sun struck across them and the odor of the June roses was wafted in through the open doors and windows.

THE house itself was turned into a semblance of a garden, with quantities of flowers which had been brought in and ranged in masses throughout the rooms. There was always an abundance of flowers grown in the hothouses located near the Bureau parties came one of our older well-known poets. We had not met before. He entered the room, was presented, and was received in cordial manner. Evidently he had not heard my name and he did not seem particularly interested. He turned to one of the aides and said, "But my hostess, where is she?" Being informed that he had just shaken hands with her, he turned and I welcomed him all over again. A little later I stood on the East Terrace with a small group looking out over the south grounds. A visitor in Washington turned to me and said, "How wonderful it must be to live here and be able to take a book out under those lovely trees and read!" I replied, "Yes, I think I have read one book since I came." She looked at me in surprise shaded with pity and I am sure she went away with the idea that I did not care for reading.

I HAVE often been asked to name some of my favorite books and my reply has usually been, "People." There is a song from one of our not new musical comedies about "Girls" which says something about "the short, the fat, the lean, the tall; I don't give a rap, I love them all."

That is the way I feel about people, and I have been fortunate in being placed where I had an opportunity to gratify my taste. I come by it naturally, for my father had it before me. He indulged his liking by standing at the outer door of the church to extend the hand of Christian fellowship to all who came to worship.

In recent years, I have frequently met people who have said to me something like this, "You shake hands like your father. I attended the College Street Church in Burlington, Vermont, one Sunday morning and he greeted me at the door with a handshake and a smile of welcome that made me feel at home."

Keeping Fish Fresh.
If it is necessary to keep fish for a day or two before using, cover it lightly with salt and wrap in a cloth wrung out of vinegar. Place directly on the ice and when about to be used rinse under cold water.

Removing Chocolate Stains
To remove chocolate stains from flannels, muslins with keroseene and let stand for two hours and the stains will come out in the general washing.

Sprinkle sugar over the lower crust of a two crust pie before adding the filling. The sugar will aid in preventing a soggy crust. Egg white, unbeaten, also may be brushed over the crust to aid in the prevention of a soggy pie.

Leftover unbaked pastry should be wrapped in waxed paper and stored in the icebox for future use. The covering will prevent a crust from forming over the top.

The ATWATER KENT Mfg. Company

has never had any shares of its stock on the market.

It owns outright its business and its manufacturing plant. It has been in business for more than twenty-seven increasingly profitable years, has always done business on its own capital and has never borrowed a dollar.

All its resources and experience are concentrated upon just one thing—the making and selling of fine radio instruments. Production in its thirty-two acre factory is scientifically controlled, so that Atwater Kent dealers always have enough radio on hand to meet the public demand, and are never overstocked. Its inventory is never excessive.

Single-minded devotion to its one job—the production of the finest radio that can be built—has put the Atwater Kent Manufacturing Company today in the strongest position it has ever held. Strongest in the excellence of its product—Atwater Kent Screen-Grid Radio. Strongest in the confidence of the public. Strongest in stability, which is the keystone of permanence in any business.

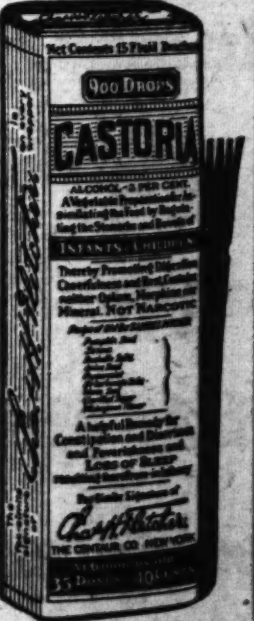

A. Atwater Kent, President.

An Ailing CHILD

Are you prepared to render first aid and quick comfort the moment your youngster has an upset of any sort? Could you do the right thing—immediately—though the emergency came without warning—perhaps tonight? Castoria is a mother's standby at such times. There is nothing like it in emergencies, and nothing better for everyday use. For a sudden attack of colic, or the gentle relief of constipation; to allay a feverish condition, or to soothe a fretful baby that can't sleep. This pure vegetable preparation is always ready to ease an ailing youngster. It is just as harmless as the recipe on the wrapper reads. If you see Chat. H. Fletcher's signature, it is genuine Castoria. It is harmless to the smallest infant; doctors will tell you so.

You can tell from the recipe on the wrapper how mild it is, and how good for little systems. But continue with Castoria until a child is grown.

THIS is a facsimile of an advertisement published in newspapers November 1, 1929. Since then the Atwater Kent Manufacturing Company has moved steadily forward. Public demand for its radio is so great that for many weeks the factory was unable to keep up with orders, although production has been materially increased. Its collections are absolutely normal—showing the responsibility of the business men who sell Atwater Kent Radio.

More than ever before, the purchaser of radio is concerned with the stability of the manufacturer who makes his set. The Atwater Kent Manufacturing Company has been stabilized for twenty-eight years.

A. Atwater Kent, President.

On the other hand, Underwood Elliott Fisher and International Business Machine each closed out 6 points higher. Colotex, Inc. Advance Rumely preferred, and Columbia Carbon, a small sugar appeared on the tape 3 points above its previous price. Wheat and corn prices were unchanged to 1/4c a bushel higher. Call money followed its familiar course today, receding at 4 1/2 per cent and dropping to 4. The market was extremely quiet and brokers reported little business. There were a few loans made at 3 1/2 per cent in the "outside market," but the amounts so loaned were of a negligible quantity. Time money was slightly firmer in the longer maturities, four, five and six months, these being quoted at 4 1/2 per cent, while 30, 60 and 90 day loans were made at from 4 1/4 to 4 1/2 per cent.

Stock prices, with other timbers and machineries, were well found on page 8C, 10C and 11C.
